

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

STUDEBAKER BROTHERS, LARGE CARRIAGE and WAGON FACTORY,

A part of which is represented by the engraving on the first page of this book, is located in the City of

South Bend, Indiana,

Eighty-five miles east of Chicago, on the M. S. & N. I. R. R. It was established in 1852 and now ranks second to none in the West.

INDIANA TIMBER

Is noted for its excellence, and the fact that our factory is located in the best timbered section of the State, is a guaranty that our wagons are made of the best TIMBER. Our wagons are known as the

CELEBRATED STUDEBAKER WAGON.

And our shop is the only one in the country where the

SLOPE SHOULDER SPOKE

is used; we will guarantee the wheels on our 3½ Thimble Skein Wagons to carry over

FORTY HUNDRED.

Carriages and Buggies.

Attention is called to the fact that we use SARVEN'S PATENT BUGGY WHEELS, which are far superior to any known to the trade. Also, GRANT'S SHIFTING RAIL, by which a buggy top can be almost instantly removed, either for convenience, or in case of accident. We keep on hand every style of Carriage and Buggy, all sizes of FARM WAGONS, also a variety of SPRING WAGONS for one or two horses.

SAINT JOSEPH, MISSOURI.

CAUTION!

Our Wagons are sold throughout the West by agents. See that the name of STUDEBAKER is on the side of the bed.

P R E F A C E.

WE have the satisfaction of presenting to the public the first History and Directory of Doniphan County, Kansas.

In offering this work to the public we feel no small degree of solicitude lest it should not meet the expectations of our patrons, who have waited so patiently for its compilation. We have the consciousness of having labored faithfully to make it as correct as possible.

This work has been accomplished with no ordinary degree of labor, patience, and expense, and under many difficulties. In such a comparatively young county, where the people are alive to all kinds of shifting enterprises and otherwise very unsettled, and where the facilities throughout are so limited from which to obtain correct information, and the many changes constantly taking place, we can scarcely be charged with egotism in saying we have obtained and embodied in the present volume a vast amount of valuable information, which, upon careful perusal, will be found not only interesting but of great utility to the business community, the emigrant, and traveler.

We, therefore, deem it unnecessary for an apology for any omissions or inaccuracies that may have occurred; but confidently launch our work upon the stream of public favor, relying upon the charity of a generous public to overlook what might be charged as faults—regardless of those self-appointed critics who make it their business to pick out all the little errors and magnify their importance.

We endeavor to give a History of our State, and also the rise and progress of our county, in as brief a way as possible, holding forth our advantages and facilities, and we hope that every person who has any interest in our county will take the trouble to peruse it.

OUR CITIZENS' DIRECTORY

is so arranged as to give a pretty good knowledge of the two classes of citizens—the transient and the permanent. The word renter is annexed to every name (especially farmers) who do not own the property upon which they reside, thus pointing out the transient community.

This portion of the work will be found very useful to every citizen or person seeking certain localities of our county ; by referring to the Directory, a person can ride direct to any citizen's house without the delay of stopping to make inquiries, &c.

OUR BUSINESS DIRECTORY will give a better idea of the business of our county than any other method we could adopt, as each business is arranged under regular classified heads, and the name and post-office of every individual and firm doing business.

THE RECORD OF SOLDIERS will be very interesting for reference, especially to those who participated in the late war.

THE LEGAL FORMS and TABLES will be found very valuable to the citizens generally.

We have endeavored to embody in this volume all that will make it of interest and importance to our citizens, and sincerely hope that it may meet their approval.

To the press generally, to our patrons, and the numerous friends who have aided us in the collection of the material for our work, we feel deeply indebted, and trust, in our future efforts, to return their kind favors and renew our obligations.

Respectfully,

S., V. & Co.

April, 1868.

HISTORY AND DIRECTORY

DONIPHAN COUNTY, KANSAS.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN upon the occasion of his second inauguration for President of the United States, delivered at Washington, on the 4th day of March, 1865—one month and ten days before his assassination :

FELLOW CITIZENS.—At this second appearing to take the oath of the Presidential Office, there is less occasion for an extended address than there was at the first.

Then a statement, somewhat in detail, of a course to be pursued seemed very fitting and proper. Now, at the expiration of four years, during which public declarations have been constantly called forth on every point and phase of the great contest which still absorbs the attention and engrosses the energies of the nation, little that is new could be presented.

The progress of our arms, upon which all else chiefly depends, is as well known to the public as to myself, and it is, I trust, reasonably satisfactory and encouraging to all. With high hope for the future, no predictions with regard to it are ventured.

On the occasion corresponding to this, four years ago, all thoughts were anxiously directed to an impending Civil War. All dreaded it, all sought to avoid it.

While the inaugural address was being delivered from this place, devoted altogether to saving the Union without war, insurgent agents were in the city seeking to destroy it without war—seeking to dissolve the Union and divide the effects by negotiation. Both parties deprecated war, but one of them would make war rather than let the nation survive and the other would accept war rather than let it perish, and the war came.

One-eighth of the whole population were colored slaves, not distributed generally over the Union, but located in the Southern part of it. These slaves constituted a peculiar and powerful interest. All knew that this interest was somehow the cause of the war. To strengthen, perpetuate, and extend this interest was the object for which these insurgents would rend the Union even by war, while the Government claimed no right to do more than restrict the territorial enlargement of it.

Neither party expected for the war the magnitude or the duration which it has already attained. Neither anticipated that the cause of the conflict might cease with, or even before, the conflict itself should cease. Each looked for an easier triumph and a result less fundamental and astounding.

Both read the same Bible and pray to the same God, and each invokes his aid against the other. It may seem strange that any men should dare to ask a just God's assistance in wringing their bread from the sweat of other men's faces; but let us judge not lest we be judged. The prayers of both could not be answered. That of neither has been answered fully. The Almighty has his own purposes. "Woe unto the world because of offences, for it must needs be that offences come; but woe to that man by whom the offence cometh." If we shall suppose that American slavery is one of these offences, which, in the Providence of God, must needs come, but which, having continued through the appointed time, he now wills to remove, and that he gives to both North and South this terrible war as the woe due to those by whom the offence came,—shall we discern therein any departure from those divine attributes which the believers in a living God always ascribe to him? Fondly do we hope, fervently do we pray, that this mighty scourge of war may soon pass away. Yet God wills that it continue until all the wealth piled by the bondman's two hundred and fifty years of unrequited toil shall be sunk and until every drop of blood drawn with the lash shall be paid with another drawn with the sword. As was said three thousand years ago, so still it must be said, "The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether."

With malice toward none, with charity to all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphans, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations.

CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS.

PREAMBLE.

WE, the people of Kansas, grateful to Almighty God for our civil and religious privileges, in order to insure the full enjoyment of our rights as American Citizens, do ordain and establish this Constitution of the State of Kansas, with the following boundaries, to wit:

Beginning at a point on the western boundary of the State of Missouri, where the thirty-seventh parallel of north latitude crosses the same; thence running west on said parallel to the twenty-fifth meridian of longitude west from Washington; thence north, on said meridian, to the fortieth parallel of north latitude; thence east, on said parallel, to the western boundary of the State of Missouri; thence south with the western boundary of said State to the place of beginning.

BILL OF RIGHTS.

SEC. I.—All men are possessed of equal and inalienable natural rights, among which are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

II.—All political power is inherent in the people, and all free governments are founded on their authority, and are instituted for their equal protection and benefit. No special privileges or annuities shall ever be granted by the Legislature which may not be altered, revoked, or repealed by the same body, and this power shall be exercised by no other tribunal or agency.

III.—The people have the right to assemble, in a peaceable manner, to consult for their common good, to instruct their representatives, and to petition the government or any department thereof for the redress of grievances.

IV.—The people have the right to bear arms for their defense and security; but standing armies in time of peace are dangerous to liberty and shall not be tolerated; and the military shall be in strict subordination to the civil power.

V.—The right of trial by jury shall be inviolate.

VI.—There shall be no slavery in this State, and no involuntary servitude, except for the punishment of crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.

VII.—The right to worship God according to the dictates of conscience shall never be infringed, nor shall any person be compelled to attend or support any form of worship, nor shall any control of or interference with the rights of conscience be permitted, nor any preference be given by law to any religious establishment or mode of worship. No religious test or property qualifications shall be required for any office of public trust nor for any vote at any election, nor shall any person be incompetent to testify on account of religious belief.

VIII.—The right to the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless the public safety require it, in case of invasion or rebellion.

IX.—All persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses where proof is evident or the presumption great. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel or unusual punishment inflicted.

X.—In all prosecutions the accused shall be allowed to appear and defend in person or by counsel, to demand the nature and cause of the accusation against him, to meet the witness face to face, and to have compulsory process to compel the attendance of witnesses in his behalf, and a speedy public trial by an impartial jury of the county or district in which the offense is alleged to have been committed. No person shall be a witness against himself, or be twice put in jeopardy for the same offense.

XI.—The liberty of the press shall be inviolate, and all persons may freely speak, write, or publish their sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of such right; and in all civil or criminal actions for libel the truth may be given in evidence to the jury, and if it shall appear that the alleged libelous matter was published for justifiable ends the accused party shall be acquitted.

XII.—No person shall be transported from the State for any offense committed within the same, and no conviction in the State shall work a corruption of blood or forfeiture of estate.

XIII.—Treason shall consist only in levying war against the State, adhering to its enemies, or giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the evidence of two witnesses to the same overt act, or confession in open court.

XIV.—No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the occupant, nor in time of war except as prescribed by law.

XV.—The right of the people to be secure in their persons and property against unreasonable searches and seizures shall be inviolate, and no warrant shall issue but on probable cause supported by oath or affirmation, particularly describing the place to be searched and the person or property to be seized.

XVI.—No person shall be imprisoned for debt except in case of fraud.

XVII.—No distinction shall ever be made between citizens and aliens in reference to the purchase, enjoyment, or descent of property.

XVIII.—All persons, for injuries suffered in person, reputation, or property, shall have remedy by due course of law and justice, administered without delay.

XIX.—No hereditary emoluments, honors, or privileges shall ever be granted or conferred by the State.

XX.—This enumeration of rights shall not be construed to impair or deny others retained by the people, and all powers not herein delegated remain with the people.

ARTICLE FIRST.

EXECUTIVE.

SEC. I.—The Executive Department shall consist of a Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer, Attorney-General, and Superintendent of Public Instruction, who shall be chosen by the electors of the State at the time and place of voting for members of the Legislature, and shall hold their offices for the term of two years from the second Monday in January next after their election, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

II.—Until otherwise provided by law, an abstract of the returns of every election for the officers named in the foregoing section shall be sealed up and transmitted by the Clerk of the Board of Canvassers of the several counties to the Secretary of State, who, with the Lieutenant-Governor and Attorney-General, shall constitute a Board of State Canvassers, whose duty it shall be to meet at the State Capital on the second Tuesday of December succeeding the election for State Officers, and canvass the vote for such officers and proclaim the result; but in case any two or more have an equal and the highest number of votes, the Legislature shall, by joint ballot, choose one of said persons so having an equal and the highest number of votes for said office.

III.—The supreme executive power of the State shall be vested in a Governor, who shall see that the laws are faithfully executed.

IV.—He may require information, in writing, from the officers of the executive department upon any subject relating to their respective duties.

V.—He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene the Legislature by proclamation, and shall, at the commencement of every session, communicate in writing such information as he may possess in reference to the condition of the State, and recommend such measures as he may deem expedient.

VI.—In case of disagreement between the two Houses in respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn the Legislature to such time as he may think proper not beyond its regular meeting.

VII.—The pardoning power shall be vested in the Governor, under regulations and restrictions prescribed by law.

VIII.—There shall be a seal of the State, which shall be kept by the Governor, and used by him officially, and which shall be the Great Seal of Kansas.

IX.—All commissions shall be issued in the name of the State of Kansas, signed by the Governor, countersigned by the Secretary of State, and sealed with the Great Seal.

Cor. 5th and Felix Streets, ST. JOSEPH, MO.

X.—No Member of Congress or officer of the State, or of the United States, shall hold the office of Governor except as herein provided.

XI.—In case of the death, impeachment, resignation, removal, or other disability of the Governor, the power and duties of the office for the residue of the term, or until the disability shall be removed, shall devolve upon the President of the Senate.

XII.—The Lieutenant-Governor shall be President of the Senate, and shall vote only when the Senate is equally divided. The Senate shall choose a President pro tempore to preside in case of his absence or impeachment, or when he shall hold the office of Governor.

XIII.—If the Lieutenant-Governor, while holding the office of Governor, shall be impeached or displaced, or shall resign or die, or otherwise become incapable of performing the duties of the office, the President of the Senate shall act as Governor until the vacancy is filled or the disability removed; and if the President of the Senate, for any of the above causes, shall be rendered incapable of performing the duties pertaining to the office of Governor, the same shall devolve upon the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

XIV.—Should either the Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer, Attorney-General, or Superintendent of Public Instruction become incapable of performing the duties of his office for any of the causes specified in the thirteenth section of this article, the Governor shall fill the vacancy until the disability is removed or a successor is elected and qualified. Every such vacancy shall be filled by election at the first general election that occurs more than thirty days after it shall have happened; and the person chosen shall hold the office for the unexpired term.

XV.—The officers mentioned in this article shall at stated times receive for their services a compensation, to be established by law, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which they shall have been elected.

XVI.—The officers of the executive department, and of all public State institutions, shall, at least ten days preceding such regular session of the Legislature, severally report to the Governor, who shall transmit such reports to the Legislature.

ARTICLE SECOND.

LEGISLATIVE.

SEC. I.—The legislative power of the State shall be vested in a House of Representatives and Senate.

II.—The first House of Representatives, under this Constitution, shall consist of seventy-five members, who shall be chosen for one year. The first Senate shall consist of twenty-five members, who shall be chosen for two years. After the first election, the number of Senators and members of the House of Representatives shall be regulated by law; but shall never exceed one hundred Representatives and thirty-three Senators.

III.—The members of the Legislature shall receive, as compensation for their services, the sum of three dollars for each day's actual service at any regular or special session, and fifteen cents per mile traveled by the usual route in going to and returning from the place of meeting, but such compensation shall not in the aggregate exceed the sum of two hundred and forty dollars for each member, as per diem allowance for the first session held under this Constitution, nor more than one hundred and fifty dollars for each session thereafter; nor more than ninety dollars for any special session.

IV.—No person shall be a member of the Legislature who is not at the time of his election a qualified voter of and a resident in the county or district for which he is elected.

V.—No member of Congress or officer of the United States shall be eligible to a seat in the Legislature. If any person, after his election to the Legislature, be elected to Congress, or elected or appointed to any office under the United States, his acceptance thereof shall vacate his seat.

VI.—No person convicted of embezzlement or misuse of the public funds shall have a seat in the Legislature.

VII.—All the State officers, before entering upon their respective duties, shall take and subscribe an oath or affirmation to support the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of this State, and faithfully to discharge the duties of their respective offices.

VIII.—A majority of each House shall constitute a quorum. Each House shall establish its own rules, and shall be judge of the election-returns and qualifications of its own members.

IX.—All vacancies occurring in either House shall be filled for the unexpired term by election.

CHARGES REASONABLE.

X.—Each House shall keep and publish a journal of its proceedings. The yeas and nays shall be taken, and entered immediately in the journal upon the final passage of every bill or joint resolution.

Neither House, without the consent of the other, shall adjourn for more than two days, Sundays excepted.

XI.—Any member of either House shall have the right to protest against any bill or resolution, and such protest shall, without delay or alteration, be entered on the journal.

XII.—All bills shall originate in the House of Representatives, and be subject to amendment or rejection by the Senate.

XIII.—A majority of all the members elected to each House voting in the affirmative shall be necessary to pass any bill or joint resolution.

XIV.—Every bill and joint resolution passed by the House of Representatives and Senate, shall within two days thereafter be signed by the presiding officers and presented to the Governor; if he approve it he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it to the House of Representatives which shall enter the objections at large upon its journal, and proceed to reconsider the same. If after such reconsideration two-thirds of the members elected shall agree to pass the bill or resolution it shall be sent with the objections to the Senate by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of all the members elected it shall become a law. But in all such cases the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays, and entered upon the journals of each House. If any bill shall not be returned within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to the Governor, it shall become a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Legislature, by its adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not become a law.

XV.—Every bill shall be read on three separate days in each House, unless in case of emergency. Two-thirds of the House where such bill is pending may, if deemed expedient, suspend the rules; but the reading of the bill by section on its final passage shall in no case be dispensed with.

XVI.—No bill shall contain more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title; and no law shall be revised or amended unless the new act contain the entire act revised, or the section or sections amended, and the section or sections so amended shall be repealed.

XVII.—All laws of a general nature shall have a uniform operation throughout the State; and in all cases where a general law can be applicable no special law shall be enacted.

XVIII.—All power to grant divorces is vested in the District Courts subject to regulation by law.

XIX.—The Legislature shall prescribe the time when its acts shall be in force, and shall provide for the speedy publication of the same; and no law of a general nature shall be in force until the same be published. It shall have the power to provide for the election or appointment of all officers, and the filling of all vacancies not otherwise provided for in this Constitution.

XX.—The enacting clause of all laws shall be, "Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Kansas," and no law shall be enacted except by bill.

XXI.—The Legislature may confer upon tribunals transacting the county business of the several counties such powers of local legislation and administration as it shall deem expedient.

XXII.—For any speech or debate in either House the members shall not be questioned elsewhere. No member of the Legislature shall be subject to arrest, except for felony or breach of the peace, in going to or returning from the place of meeting, or during the continuance of the session; neither shall he be subject to the service of any civil process during the session, nor for fifteen days previous to its commencement.

XXIII.—The Legislature in providing for the formation and regulation of schools shall make no distinction between the rights of males and females.

XXIV.—No money shall be drawn from the Treasury except in pursuance of a specific appropriation made by law; and no appropriation shall be for a longer term than one year.

XXV.—All sessions of the Legislature shall be held at the State Capital, and all regular sessions shall commence annually on the second Tuesday in January.

XXVI.—The Legislature shall provide for taking an enumeration of the inhabitants of the State at least once in ten years. The first enumeration shall be taken A. D. 1865.

XXVII.—The House of Representatives shall have the sole power to impeach. All impeachments shall be tried by the Senate; and when sitting for that purpose the Senators shall take an oath to do justice according to the law and the evidence. No person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the Senators elected.

XXVIII.—The Governor and all other officers under this Constitution shall be subject to impeachment for any misdemeanor in office, but judgment shall not be extended further than to removal from office, or disqualification to hold any office of profit, honor, or trust under this Constitution; but the party, whether convicted or acquitted, shall be liable to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment according to law.

ARTICLE THIRD.

JUDICIAL.

SEC. I.—The judicial power of the State shall be vested in a Supreme Court, District Courts, Probate Courts, Justices of the Peace, and such other Courts inferior to the Supreme Court as may be provided by law; and all Courts of Record shall have a seal to be used in the authentication of all process.

II.—The Supreme Court shall consist of one Chief Justice and two Associate Justices (a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum), who shall be elected by the electors of the State at large, and whose term of office, after the first, shall be six years.

At the first election a Chief Justice shall be chosen for six years, one Associate Justice for four years, and one for two years.

III.—The Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction in proceedings in quo warranto, mandamus, and habeas corpus, and such appellate jurisdiction as may be provided by law. It shall hold one term each year at the seat of Government, and such other terms at such other places as may be provided by law, and its jurisdiction shall be co-extensive with the State.

IV.—There shall be appointed by the Justices of the Supreme Court a reporter and clerk of said Court, who shall hold their offices two years, and whose duties shall be prescribed by law.

V.—The State shall be divided into five Judicial Districts, in each of which there shall be elected by the electors thereof a District Judge, who shall hold his office for the term of four years. District Courts shall be held at such times and places as may be provided by law.

VI.—The District Courts shall have such jurisdiction in their respective districts as may be provided by law.

VII.—There shall be elected in each organized county a Clerk of the District Court, who shall hold his office two years, and whose duties shall be prescribed by law.

VIII.—There shall be a Probate Court in each county, which shall be a Court of Record, and have such probate jurisdiction and care of estates of deceased persons of unsound minds as may be prescribed by law, and shall have jurisdiction in cases of habeas corpus. This Court shall consist of one Judge, who shall be elected by the qualified voters of the county and hold his office two years. He shall be his own clerk and shall hold Court at such times, and receive for compensation such fees, as may be prescribed by law.

IX.—The Justices of the Peace shall be elected in each township, whose term of office shall be two years, and whose powers and duties shall be prescribed by law. The Justices of the Peace may be increased in any township by law.

X.—All appeals from Probate Courts and Justices of the Peace shall be to the District Court.

XI.—All the judicial officers provided for in this article shall be elected at the first election under this Constitution, and shall reside in their respective townships, counties, or districts during their respective terms of office. In case of vacancy in any judicial office it shall be filled by appointment of the Governor until the next regular election that shall occur more than thirty days after such vacancy shall have happened.

XII.—All judicial officers shall hold their offices until their successors shall have been qualified.

XIII.—The Justices of the Supreme Court and Judges of the District shall, at stated times, receive for their services such compensation as may be provided by law, which shall not be increased during their respective terms of office: Provided, Such compensations shall not be less than fifteen hundred dollars to each Justice or Judge each year, and such Justices or Judges shall receive no fees or perquisites or hold any other office of profit or trust under the authority of the State or the United States during the term of office for which said Justices and Judges shall be elected, nor practice law in any of the Courts of the State during their continuance in office.

XIV.—Provisions may be made by law for the increase of the number of judicial districts whenever two-thirds of the members of each House shall concur. Such districts shall be formed of compact territory, and bounded by county lines, and such increase shall not vacate the office of any judge.

XV.—Justices of the Supreme Court and judges of the District Courts may be removed from office by resolution of both Houses, if two-thirds of the members of each House concur; but no such removal shall be made except upon complaint, the substance of which shall be entered upon the journal, nor until the party charged shall have had notice and opportunity to be heard.

XVI.—The several justices and judges of the Courts of Record in this State shall have such jurisdictional chambers as may be provided by law.

XVII.—The style of all process shall be "The State of Kansas," and all prosecutions shall be carried on in the name of the State.

XVIII.—Until otherwise provided by law, the first district shall consist of the counties of Wyandotte, Leavenworth, Jefferson, and Jackson. The second district shall consist of the counties of Atchison, Doniphan, Brown, Nemaha, Marshall, and Washington. The third district shall consist of the counties of Pottawatomie, Riley, Clay, Dickinson, Davis, Wa-baunsee, and Shawnee. The fourth district shall consist of the counties of Douglas, Johnson, Lykins, Franklin, Anderson, Linn, Bourbon, and Allen. The fifth district shall consist of the counties of Osage, Coffee, Woodson, Greenwood, Madison, Breckinridge, Morris, Chase, Butler, and Hunter.

XIX.—New or unorganized counties shall by law be attached for judicial purposes to the most convenient judicial districts.

XX.—Provisions shall be made by law for the selection by the bar of a pro tempore judge of the District Court when the judge is absent or otherwise unable or disqualified to sit in any case.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

ELECTIONS.

SEC. I.—All elections by the people shall be by ballot, and all elections by the Legislature shall be viva voce.

II.—General elections shall be held annually on the Tuesday succeeding the first Monday in November. Township elections shall be held on the first Tuesday of April until otherwise provided by law.

ARTICLE FIFTH.

SUFFRAGE.

SEC. I.—Every white male person of twenty-one years and upward, belonging to either of the following classes, who shall have resided in Kansas six months next preceding any election, and in the township or ward in which he offers to vote at least thirty days next preceding such election—shall be deemed a qualified elector :

1st. Citizens of the United States.

2d. Persons of foreign birth who shall have declared their intention to become citizens, conformable to the laws of the United States on the subject of naturalization.

II.—No person under guardianship, non compos mentis, or insane, shall be qualified to vote, nor any person convicted of treason or felony, unless restored to civil rights.

III.—No soldier, seaman, or marine in the army or navy of the United States, or of their allies, shall be deemed to have acquired a residence in the State in consequence of being stationed within the same ; nor shall any soldier, seaman, or marine have the right to vote.

IV.—The Legislature shall pass such laws as may be necessary for ascertaining by proper proofs the citizens who shall be entitled to the right of suffrage hereby established.

V.—Every person who shall give or accept a challenge to fight a duel, or who shall knowingly carry to another person such challenge, or shall go out of the State to fight a duel, shall be ineligible to any office of trust or profit.

VI.—Every person who shall have given or offered a bribe to procure his election shall be disqualified from holding office during the term for which he may have been elected.

VII.—Electors, during their attendance at elections, and in going to and returning therefrom, shall be privileged from arrest in all cases except treason, felony, or breach of the peace.

ARTICLE SIXTH

EDUCATION.

SEC. I.—The State Superintendent of Public Instruction shall have the general supervision of the Common School fund and educational interests of the State, and perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law. A Superintendent of Public Instruction shall be elected in each county, whose term of office shall be two years, and whose duty and compensation shall be prescribed by law.

II.—The Legislature shall encourage the promotion of intellectual, moral, scientific, and agricultural improvement, by establishing a uniform system of Common Schools and schools of higher grade, embracing normal, preparatory, Collegiate, and University departments.

III.—The proceeds of all lands that have been or may be granted by the United States to the State for the support of the Schools, and the five hundred thousand acres of land granted to the new State under an act of Congress distributing the proceeds of public lands among the several States of the Union, approved September 4th, A. D. 1841, and all estates of persons dying without heir or will, and such per cent. as may be granted by Congress on the sale of lands in this State, shall be the common property of the State, and shall be a perpetual School fund, which shall not be diminished, but the interest of which, together with all the rents of the lands and such other means as the Legislature may provide by tax or otherwise, shall be inviolably appropriated to the support of Common Schools.

IV.—The income of the State school funds shall be disbursed annually by order of the State Superintendent to the several County Treasurers, and thence to the treasurers of the several school districts, in equitable proportion to the number of children and youth resident therein between the ages of five and twenty-one years. Provided, That no school district in which a common school has not been maintained at least three months in each year, shall be entitled to receive any portion of such funds.

V.—The school lands shall not be sold unless such sale shall be authorized by a vote of the people at a general election; but, subject to a revaluation every five years, they may be leased for any number of years, not exceeding twenty-five, at a rate established by law.

VI.—All money which shall be paid by persons as an equivalent for exemption from military duty; the clear proceeds of estrays, ownership of which shall vest in the taker-up; and the proceeds of fines for any breach of the penal laws, shall be exclusively applied in the several counties in which the money is paid or fines collected to the support of common schools.

VII.—Provision shall be made by law for the establishment of some eligible and central point of a State University for the promotion of literature and the arts and sciences, including a normal and an agricultural department. All funds arising from the sales or rents of lands granted by the United States to the State for the support of a State University, and all other grants, donations, or bequests, either by the State or by individuals for such a purpose, shall remain a permanent fund, to be called "The University fund," the interest of which shall be appropriated to the support of the State University.

VIII.—No religious sect or sects shall ever control any part of the Common School or University funds of the State.

IX.—The State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Secretary of State, and Attorney-General, shall constitute a Board of Commissioners for the management and investment of the school funds. Any two of said Commissioners shall be a quorum.

ARTICLE SEVENTH.

PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

Sec. I.—Institutions for the insane, blind, and deaf and dumb, and such other benevolent institutions as the public good may require, shall be fostered and supported by the State, subject to such regulations as may be prescribed by law. Trustees of such benevolent institutions as may be hereafter created, shall be appointed by the Governor by and with the advice and consent of the Senate; and upon all nominations made by the Governor, the question shall be taken in yeas and nays, and entered upon the journal.

II.—A penitentiary shall be established; the directors of which shall be appointed or elected as prescribed by law.

III.—The Governor shall fill any vacancy that may occur in the offices aforesaid until the next session of the Legislature, and until a successor to his appointee shall be confirmed and qualified.

IV.—The respective counties of the State shall provide, as may be prescribed by law, for those inhabitants who, by reason of age, infirmity, or other misfortune, may have claims upon the sympathy and aid of society.

ARTICLE EIGHTH.

MILITIA.

Sec. I.—The Militia shall be composed of all able-bodied white male citizens, between the ages of twenty-one and forty-five years, except such as are exempted by the laws of the United States or of this State; but all citizens of any religious denomination whatever, who from scruples of conscience may be averse to bearing arms, shall be exempted therefrom upon such conditions as may be prescribed by law.

II.—The Legislature shall provide for organizing, equipping, and disciplining the Militia, in such manner as it shall deem expedient, not incompatible with the laws of the United States.

III.—Officers of the Militia shall be elected or appointed, and commissioned in such manner as may be provided by law.

IV.—The Governor shall be commander-in-chief, and shall have power to call out the Militia to execute the laws, to suppress insurrection, and to repel invasion.

ARTICLE NINTH.

COUNTY AND TOWNSHIP ORGANIZATION.

SEC. I.—The Legislature shall provide for organizing new counties, locating county seats, and changing county lines; but no county seat shall be changed without the consent of a majority of the electors of the county; nor any county organized, nor the lines of any changed so as to include an area of less than four hundred and thirty-two square miles.

II.—The Legislature shall provide for such county and township officers as may be necessary.

III.—All county officers shall hold their offices for the term of two years, and until their successors shall be qualified; but no person shall hold the office of Sheriff or County Treasurer for more than two consecutive terms.

IV.—Township officers, except Justices of the Peace, shall hold their offices one year, from the Monday next succeeding their election and until their successors are qualified.

V.—All county and township officers may be removed from office in such manner and for such cause as shall be prescribed by law.

ARTICLE TENTH.

APPORTIONMENT.

SEC. I.—In the future apportionment of the State each organized county shall have at least one representative; and each county shall be divided into as many districts as it has representatives.

II.—It shall be the duty of the first Legislature to make an apportionment based upon the census ordered by the last Legislative Assembly of the Territory, and a new apportionment shall be made in the year 1866, and every five years thereafter, based upon the census of the preceding year.

ARTICLE ELEVENTH.

FINANCE AND TAXATION.

SEC. I.—The Legislature shall provide for a uniform and equal rate of assessment and taxation; but all property used exclusively for State, county, municipal, literary, educational, scientific, religious, benevolent, and charitable purposes, and personal property to the amount of at least two hundred dollars for each family, shall be exempted from taxation.

II.—The Legislature shall provide for taxing the notes and bills discounted or purchased, moneys loaned, and other property, effects, or dues of every description (without deduction) of all banks now existing or hereafter to be created, and of all bankers; so that all property employed in banking shall always bear a burden of taxation equal to that imposed upon the property of individuals.

III.—The Legislature shall provide each year for raising revenue sufficient to defray the current expenses of the State.

IV.—No tax shall be levied except in pursuance of a law which shall distinctly state the object of the same, to which object only such tax shall be applied.

V.—For the purpose of defraying extraordinary expenses and making public improvements the State may contract public debts; but such debts shall never, in the aggregate, exceed one million dollars, except as hereinafter provided. Every such debt shall be authorized by law for some purpose specified therein, and a vote of a majority of all the members elected to each House, to be taken by the yeas and nays, shall be necessary to the passage of such law, and every such law shall provide for levying an annual tax sufficient to pay the annual interest of such debt, and the principal thereof when it shall become due, and shall specifically appropriate the proceeds of such taxes to the payment of such principal and interest; and such appropriation shall not be repealed nor the taxes postponed or diminished until the principal and interest of such debt shall have been wholly paid.

VI.—No debt shall be contracted by the State except as herein provided, unless the proposed law for creating such debt shall first be submitted to a direct vote of the electors of the State at some general election; and if such proposed law shall be ratified by a majority of all the votes cast at such general election, then it shall be the duty of the Legislature next after such election, to enact such law and create such debt, subject to all the provisions and restrictions provided in the preceding section of this article.

VII.—The State may borrow money to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, or defend the State in time of war; but the money thus raised shall be applied exclusively to the object for which the law was authorized, or to the repayment of the debt thereby created.

VIII.—The State shall never be a party in carrying on any works of internal improvement.

ARTICLE TWELFTH.

CORPORATIONS.

SEC. I.—The Legislature shall pass no special act confirming corporate powers. Corporations may be created under general laws, but all such laws may be amended or repealed.

II.—Dues from corporations shall be secured by individual liability of the stockholders to an additional amount equal to the stock owned by each stockholder; and such other means as shall be provided by law; but such individual liabilities shall not apply to railroad corporations nor corporations for religious or charitable purposes.

III.—The title to all property of religious corporations shall vest in trustees, whose election shall be by the members of such corporations.

IV.—No right of way shall be appropriated to the use of any corporation until the compensation therefor be first made in money or secured by a deposit of money to the owner, irrespective of any benefit from any improvement proposed by such corporation.

V.—Provisions shall be made by general law for the organization of cities, towns, and villages; and their power of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning their credit, shall be so restricted as to prevent the abuse of such power.

VI.—The term corporation, as used in this article, shall include all associations and joint-stock companies having powers and privileges not possessed by individuals and partnerships; and all corporations may sue and be sued in their corporate name.

ARTICLE THIRTEENTH.

BANKS AND CURRENCY.

SEC. I.—No bank shall be established otherwise than under a general banking law.

DR. W. H. BROWN,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OFFICE AT RESIDENCE,
TROY, - - - - KANSAS.

II.—All banking laws shall require, as collateral security for the redemption of the circulating notes of any bank organized under their provisions, a deposit with the Auditor of State of the interest-paying bonds of the several States, or of the United States, at the cash rates of the New York Stock Exchange, to an amount equal to the amount of circulating notes which such bank shall be authorized to issue, and a cash deposit in its vaults of ten per cent. of such amount of circulating notes, and the Auditor shall register and countersign no more circulating bills of any bank than the cash value of such bonds when deposited.

III.—Whenever the bonds pledged as collateral security for the circulation of any bank shall depreciate in value, the Auditor of State shall require additional security or curtail the circulation of such bank to such extent as will continue the security unimpaired.

IV.—All circulating notes shall be redeemable in the money of the United States. Holders of such notes shall be entitled, in case of the insolvency of such banks, to preference of payment over all other creditors.

V.—The State shall not be a stockholder in any banking institution.

VI.—All banks shall be required to keep offices and officers, for the issue and redemption of their circulation, at a convenient place within the State, to be named on the circulating notes issued by such bank.

VII.—No banking institution shall issue circulating notes of a less denomination than five dollars.

VIII.—No banking law shall be in force until the same shall have been submitted to a vote of the electors of the State at some general election, and approved by a majority of all the votes cast at such election.

IX.—Any banking law may be amended or repealed.

ARTICLE FOURTEENTH.

AMENDMENTS.

SEC. I.—Propositions for the amendment of this Constitution may be made by either branch of the Legislature, and if two-thirds of all the members elected to each House shall concur therein, such proposed amendments, together with the yeas and nays, shall be entered on the journal; and the Secretary of State shall cause the same to be published in at least one newspaper in each county of the State where a newspaper is published, for three months preceding the next election for representatives, at which time the same shall be submitted to the electors for their approval or rejection; and if a majority of the electors voting on said amendments at said election shall adopt the amendments, the same shall become a part of the Constitution. When more than one amendment shall be submitted at the same time, they shall be so submitted as to enable the electors to vote on each amendment separately, and not more than three propositions to amend shall be submitted at the same election.

II.—Whenever two-thirds of the members elected to each branch of the Legislature shall think it necessary to call a Convention to revise, amend, or change this Constitution, they shall recommend to the electors to vote at the next election of members to the Legislature for or against a convention; and if a majority of all the electors voting at such election shall have voted for a convention, the Legislature shall at the next session provide for calling the same.

ARTICLE FIFTEENTH.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SEC. I.—All officers whose election or appointment is not otherwise provided for, shall be chosen or appointed as may be prescribed by law.

II.—The tenure of any office not herein provided for may be declared by law; when not so declared such office shall be held during the pleasure of the authority making the appointment; but the Legislature shall not create any office the tenure of which shall be longer than four years.

III.—Lotteries and the sale of lottery tickets are forever prohibited.

IV.—All public printing shall be let on contract to the lowest responsible bidder, by such executive officers, and in such manner as shall be prescribed by law.

V.—An accurate and detailed statement of the receipts and expenditures of the public moneys, and the several amounts paid to whom, and on what account, shall be published as prescribed by law.

VI.—The Legislature shall provide for the protection of the rights of women in acquiring and possessing property, real, personal, and mixed, separate and apart from the husband; and shall also provide for their equal rights in the possession of their children.

VII.—The Legislature may reduce the salaries of officers who shall neglect the performance of any legal duty.

VIII.—The temporary seat of Government is hereby located at the city of Topeka, county of Shawnee.

The first Legislature under this Constitution shall provide by law for submitting the question of the permanent location of the Capital to a popular vote, and a majority of all the votes cast at some general election shall be necessary for such location.

IX.—A homestead to the extent of one hundred and sixty acres of farming land, or of one acre within the limits of an incorporated town or city, occupied as a residence by the family of the owner, together with all the improvements on the same, shall be exempted from forced sale under any process of law, and shall not be alienated without the joint consent of husband and wife when that relation exists; but no property shall be exempt from sale for taxes, or for the payment of obligations contracted for the purchase of said premises, or for the erection of improvements thereon: Provided, The provisions of this section shall not apply to any process of law obtained by virtue of a lien given by the consent of both husband and wife.

The popular vote for President at the last Presidential Election (in 1864) was as follows:

Indiana," from which it derives its name, lies within the following boundaries, to wit:

Beginning at a point on the western boundary of the State of Missouri, where the thirty-seventh [37] parallel of north latitude crosses the same, thence west on said parallel to the twenty-fifth meridian of longitude west from Washington, thence north on the said meridian to the fortieth parallel of latitude, thence east on said parallel to the western boundary of the State of Missouri, thence south with the western boundary of said State to the place of beginning.

The Territory of Kansas was organized under the administration of Franklin Pierce, President of the United States, who approved an Act of Congress organizing the said Territory on the thirtieth day of May, A. D. 1854, which Territory up to that time had no other name than the Indian territory.

This country retained its Territorial organization until A. D. 1859.

In the month of July, 1859, the Territorial Legislature passed an act to call a convention for the purpose of framing a Constitution for a State Government, which Convention convened at Wyandotte, on the 29th day of July, 1859, and framed and adopted a State Constitution, which was submitted to the people for their ratification or objection, and was ratified by a vote on the first Tuesday in October, A. D. 1859; and on the first Tuesday of the December following, at a general election the following State Officers were elected:

Charles Robinson, Governor.

J. P. Root, Lieut.-Governor.

John W. Robinson, Secretary of State.

George S. Hillyer, Auditor of State.

Wm. P. Tholen, Treasurer of State.

Martin F. Conway, Representative in Congress.

The President of the United States (James Buchanan) approved an act of Congress, on the 29th day of January, 1861, for the admission of Kansas into the Union as a State under the Wyandotte Constitution, and Charles Robinson issued his first proclamation (as Governor of the State of Kansas) in February, 1861, calling the Legislature together on the 26th day of March, at which time the career of the State began.

Since the admission of Kansas into the Union on an equal footing with other States, no country has ever settled more rapidly, and no community grown in wealth and enterprise faster. Kansas, with her broad prairies and wooded bottom-lands, offers facilities for the emigrant and settler that can not be found in any other State in the Union; and with her additional advantages of the very low price at which lands can be procured for farming and mining purposes, none are so poor but that by a little energy and industry they can gain a good competency, and ere many years amass fortunes to which they have never before aspired.

The sun can not shed its rays upon a more fertile country; nor can man, with his ingenious skill, shape a country better adapted to all kinds of agricultural pursuits.

Kansas contains an area of eighty thousand square miles, and is as large as the whole of New England.

The census of 1865 shows a population of 167,205. This census was taken over two years ago, since which time the State has improved faster than ever before, and it is safe to estimate at least one-fourth increase, which will swell the census for 1868 to over 200,000 souls; and being in the same latitude with Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland, and Southern Illinois, it is, therefore, well adapted (by climate) to all the products of those several States, while her lands are much richer and adapted to many products which can not be produced in any of the aforesaid States.

The soil is a rich black loam, from two to five feet deep, with a sub-soil of clay generally free from rocks, and is well adapted to all products of the temperate zone. The staple products of the country are corn and wheat. Corn yields from forty to one hundred and ten bushels; wheat, from twenty to forty; rye, from twenty-five to forty-five; oats from fifty to eighty; barley, from thirty-five to fifty, and all other small grain yields very bountifully. Cotton is also grown very successfully in some parts of the State, and hemp and tobacco promise fair to exceed the growth of any other State in the Union.

The climate is mild, and the country generally very healthy. There is in some portions of the State a little scarcity of timber, but generally enough for use for many years; every stream (and there are many) is skirted by groves of timber, and along the principal streams the heavy timbered land extends for miles each way. Coal is very abundant throughout the State, and but a short time will elapse before it will be almost entirely used for fuel.

As a manufacturing State (although not mountainous, and, therefore, not supplied with as great waterfalls as some of the Eastern States) Kansas has the advantage of most of the States of the Union. There are many water-courses through the State, and many good water-powers on each of these streams which are abundant to drive the heaviest kinds of machinery for from eight to ten months in the year.

Situated as it is on the western side of the great Missouri River (which is the only navigable river in the State, and whose muddy waters wash the eastern boundary of the State for many miles), her vast expanse of prairie is watered by its tributaries and the tributaries of the Arkansas river. The Kansas (with its tributaries, the Republican, Blue, Grasshopper, and Stranger on the North; the Smoky Hill, Mill Creek, and Wakansa on the South) flows into the Missouri River; and the Arkansas, which rises in the State of Colorado, flows through this State, receiving the waters of the Neosho, Verdigris, and other streams on its meandering course through the State; while many minor streams (the Independence, Wolf, Deer Creek, Mosquito, Peters, and many others too numerous to name) drain the northern part of the State and empty into the Missouri. But few of the streams have a very rapid current at ordinary stages, but most of them are sufficiently large and banks sufficiently high to admit of driving back, without danger of injuring or overflowing any of the lands adjoining upon the streams, so that nearly every stream can be used very profitably for propelling machinery. And aside from the advantages of water-powers, there is an abundance of coal in nearly any part of the State, which can be had for a very little advance upon the cost of mining.

There is timber in abundance for all present use, for improving, fencing, and fuel, although to a new comer (especially one who has ever dwelt in the timbered forests of the North), the scarcity of timber may seem evident. Yet, in traversing the country, there will be found bordering each ravine skirts of timber from one to five or six miles in width, except along the Missouri River, where the heavy timber extends far up into the prairie, in many places ten miles in width; and with a very little labor and care nice groves can be produced upon any portion of the prairie, in from three to six years, that will answer for nearly all purposes—fuel, fencing, etc., etc. The rapid growth of the locust, cottonwood, and walnut, will in a very few years make a timbered forest of the smoothest and barest prairie. The locust and walnut are considered among the best of timber for fence posts, while the cottonwood makes excellent rails, lumber, and fuel. The Osage Orange seems to be in its native element here, and only three or four years are required to make a fence that may truly be called “hog tight and horse high,” and not many years will elapse ere the Osage hedge will be about the only fencing used.

The great disadvantage under which we have labored heretofore has been the want of transportation from the interior of the State to the best markets (which were located along the river), while now we are in direct communication with all the principal cities by railroad. Kansas (although it has not yet attained its seventh year as a State) is not behind many of the older States in point of railroad improvements. Our State is already cut up with the iron rail, and the “iron horse” already startles the rural settler from his quiet bed by its unearthly screeching, and the voice of the conductor is heard in the remotest regions as he cries his “All aboard!” and plows his way across the rolling prairie westward. The branches of the Great Union Pacific Railroad are being pushed forward at a rapid rate. The Southern branch is already nearly through the State, and the Atchison and Pike's Peak Railroad is now completed over one hundred miles, while the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad is being built as fast as enterprise and human help can complete it. There are also many other roads from North to South within the State, which give us access to all parts of our State, as well as speedy connection with all the great cities of the East.

The mineral resources of the country are so little developed that as yet the world at large knows but little of their extent. In the southwestern part of the State many rich specimens of lead ore have been found, and in the opinion of many scientific men of the country, paying lead-mines will soon be discovered there, as soon as the country is sufficiently settled and the proper efforts made to open them, and in the vicinity of Fort Riley rich specimens of tin, copper, silver, and iron ore have been produced; also large deposits of gypsum or plaster of Paris have been discovered, and in various parts of the State are the salt-springs, some of which are said to be very valuable, and to encourage the manufacture of this commodity the Legislature passed an act in 1863 paying a premium of ten cents per bushel for the manufacture of the first ten thousand bushels, the money to be paid out of the State Treasury. In the vicinity of Junction City, on S. B. W. P. R. R., there has been discovered a species of plaster (rock), which is of so soft a nature as to admit of sawing to a convenient size and shape for building, and is one of the greatest productions of the world in the shape of building material. The capitol buildings at Topeka are being built of this rock. (Much more could be said of our young State, but we have not the space to admit of a more extended history.)

EDUCATIONAL.THE SYSTEM OF SCHOOLS IN THE STATE OF KANSAS.

In matters of education, Kansas is not behind, and progress in the line of education is the watchword in all parts of the State.

The State is settled by that class of people who are ever alive to the forwarding of educational matters, and who realize the necessity of giving to youth a good education at the earliest possible moment, and the great idea that free schools are the foundation of Republican institutions, and that intelligence and morality are indispensable under our system of government; they are accustomed to do their own thinking and wish to educate the youth of the country to do the same.

In order to accomplish this, the excellent system of schools adopted and framed from the workings of all other systems in older States are adopted by our State. It is based upon the principle that the property of the State shall educate the children of the State.

Taking the report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State made to December 31, 1867 (or including the year 1867), we see that the number of school districts organized in 1866 was 986, and in the year 1867 there were reported 1,172 school districts organized, showing an increase in one year of 186 districts.

The number of persons of school ages in the year 1866 was 54,723, and in the year 1867 there were reported 62,833, an increase in one year of 8,110, of which there are enrolled in public schools 39,449; average daily attendance 20,578; average time school has been taught within the year, 4.6 months; number of children studying the alphabet, 2,672; spelling, 20,162; reading, 20,293; vocal music, 1,276; penmanship, 9,942; mental arithmetic, 7,776; written arithmetic, 7,275; geography, 6,984; drawing, 590; grammar, 3,540; composition, 1,349; history, 746; botany, 104; physiology, 183; book-keeping, 134; natural philosophy, 294; chemistry, 221; algebra, 57.

There are 1,205 teachers employed in 1867; in 1866 there were 1,086, showing an increase in one year of 119 teachers; number of teachers employed in select schools, academies, and colleges, 107; add this to 1,205 employed in public schools, and it gives a total of 1,312. Average wages paid to male teachers employed in public schools, $39.44 per month; to female teachers, $26.41 per month; whole amount paid for teachers' wages in public schools, for the year 1867, $170,436.39, being an increase over the year 1866, of $54,522.28. Number of school-houses; log, 241; frame, 339; brick, 15; stone, 108—being a total of 703. The total value of school-houses is estimated at $573,690.08; being an increase over the year 1866, of $254,792.77. Estimated value of school apparatus, $18,754.56; increase over the year 1866, of $11,140.18.

Each school district is authorized to raise money to build a school-house and furnish it with apparatus, and to pay its teachers.

The sources of the permanent school-fund are as follows:—

The proceeds of the sales of school lands. The estate of persons deceased without heir or will. The five per-centums on the sales of United States public-lands within the bounds of the State. And as the State becomes more populous, the revenue from the deceased without heir or will, will constantly increase. There is now a permanent school-fund of $96,796.56, bearing interest.

As an encouragement for each district to attend to its duties, the State gives to each, according to the number of scholars, their proportion of money raised by assessment of one mill on a dollar, upon all the taxable property of the State. The amount received from this source during the last year, amounted in the aggregate to $54,959.27. For the present, we are dependent upon this revenue, together with the district tax, but the future is bright indeed.

The State contains 80,000 square miles, or 51,200,000 acres of land. Out of this every 16th and 36th section (or its equivalent) in each township in the State is set apart for the endowment of common schools. One-eighteenth of this gives for the common schools 2,844,444 acres. Should this land sell for three dollars per acre, we shall have a fund of $8,533,322. The income from this, at six per cent. per annum, will give us a yearly income of $511,999.92, which income would give to each scholar several dollars, or enough in each district to establish a graded school, with a principal and assistants for nine months in each year. In addition to the fund before mentioned, all moneys which shall be paid by persons as an equivalent for exemption from military duty, the clear proceeds of estrays, where the ownership of which shall vest in the taker-up, and the proceeds of fines for any breach of the penal laws, shall be exclusively applied to the support of the common schools. From all of which sources a considerable amount is received and disbursed each year. Probably no State in the Union has by its constitutional law, provided for so large and constantly accumulating school-fund as Kansas.

The blessings of a free education are secured to all generations by the framers of our governmental system, beyond the possibilities of chance or misfortune.

Farmers, in building granaries, by giving a little attention to the foregoing table, can always know the exact capacity of every box or bin.

For heaped bushels (as apples, potatoes, &c.,) multiply the number of cubic feet in the bin by eight, and the product by eight again, and point off two decimals. For example, a bin 4 feet long, 6 feet wide, and 5 feet deep contains 120 cubic feet, which, multiplied by 8, makes 960; multiply by 8 again, makes 7,680; point off the two right-hand figures for decimals, leaves 76 $\frac{1}{2}$ bushels.

Another mode for measuring corn in the ear:

Level the corn in the crib, then measure the length, breadth, and depth, and multiply them together, and deduct from the product one-fifth, and you have the number of bushels.

For shelled corn take one-half of this, and add half a bushel for every one hundred bushels.

Another rule for measuring corn:

Measure the length, breadth, and depth of the crib in feet, and multiply them together and the product by eight, then cut off the two figures on the right. Those on the left will be so many barrels, and those on the right so many hundredths of a barrel; or multiply the number of barrels by five, and you have the number of bushels.

A rule for measuring unshucked corn:

Multiply the length, breadth, and depth, together in feet, and the product by 5 $\frac{1}{2}$, and cut off two figures on the right, and the figures on the left will be the number of barrels, and those on the right will be hundredths of a barrel.

Another rule to measure shucked corn:

Take the dimensions in inches, multiply them together, take one-half of the product and then divide by 2,150, and you have the bushels of shelled corn.

DONIPHAN COUNTY SOLDIERS' REGISTER.

LIST OF SOLDIERS WHO ENLISTED FROM DONIPHAN COUNTY, DURING THE LATE REBELLION, GIVING THE LATEST RANK, COMPANY, AND REGIMENT (AS NEAR AS PRACTICABLE), ARRANGED BY RANK, GRADING FROM HIGHEST DOWN, IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER.

If the name searched for does not appear in the following list, refer to the "List of Soldiers who were killed in the Army," page 250.

NOTE.—The many changes that have occurred since the close of the late war renders it impossible to make a correct record of all the soldiers who went from our county; but, by diligence and extra exertions, we have collected the following list, which is as near a perfect record as can be obtained.

*Those marked * were killed or missing.*

To Purchasers of Sewing Machines!

THE FLORENCE

Has again carried off the highest honors at the Principal Fairs the present season.

HIGHEST PRIZE

At Paris Exposition Universelle, 1867.

FIRST PREMIUM at New York State Fair, held at Buffalo.

GOLD MEDAL at Fair of the Maryland Institute.

ONLY GOLD MEDAL at the Massachusetts Mechanics' Association.

AND THE FIRST PREMIUM

At the Fair of the American Institute, New York.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE.

On the 12th of September the Great Fair and Exhibition of the American Institute was opened in New York. As usual the display of Sewing Machines was large, and the competition strong; but after a six weeks' trial the friends of the FLORENCE had the satisfaction of seeing their favorite again triumphant, and for the second time bearing off the highest honors of the American Institute. Below we give an extract from the Report of the Committee on Sewing Machines, read at the close of the Fair.

"The whole number of Sewing Machines on exhibition is thirteen; of these twelve are entered for competition. The article bearing the No. 730 (FLORENCE SEWING MACHINE) is decided to be the BEST ON EXHIBITION. It must also be stated incidentally that this is better than any of its class known to the Judges."

Its merits are:

- 1st.—Good Material and thorough Workmanship.
- 2d.—More absolute novelty than marks the usual improvements in Sewing Machines.
- 3d.—The ingenious arrangement by a positive motion for adjusting the thread during the passage of the Shuttle and the gathering up of it in the finish of the stitch.
- 4th.—The REVERSIBLE feed.
- 5th.—The variety of work that can be done upon it.

We, therefore, decide that it receive the award of first class.

Signed,

WM. PRATT,
IRA S. CADY,
L. J. KNOWLER."

This is to certify that the foregoing is a true extract from the Report of the Judges of Sewing Machines at the 37th Annual Fair, 1867.

New York, November 11, 1867.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Sec'y Board Managers.

It would seem as if this succession of triumphs should be sufficient to convince every unprejudiced person of the great superiority of the FLORENCE over all others as a Family Sewing Machine.

Every Machine Warranted.

HISTORY OF DONIPHAN COUNTY, KANSAS.

OUR LOCATION, SOIL, IMPROVEMENT, ADVANTAGES, PRODUCTS, RESOURCES, &c.

Doniphan County forms the northeastern extremity of the State of Kansas, bordering upon Nebraska and Missouri.

It is bounded on the north by Nebraska, on the northeast, east, and southeast by the Missouri River, and joins Atchison County on the south, and Brown County on the west. We have an area of three hundred and seventy-six square miles. The greatest distance from north to south is twenty-seven miles, and from east to west twenty-five miles.

Our present population is estimated at about fourteen thousand, against eight thousand and eighty-four in the year 1860. The greatest portion of this increase has been since the spring of 1866, and each year increases the number of actual settlers in proportion.

Our county contains two hundred and forty thousand four hundred and ninety-seven acres of land, of which twenty-four thousand one hundred and twenty acres (or about one-tenth of all the land in the county), is timber. There are about fifty thousand acres under fence of which about forty-five thousand acres are in a good state of cultivation, leaving one hundred and forty-five thousand four hundred and ninety-seven acres uncultivated, and awaiting improvement.

Doniphan County has a great advantage in location over all other counties in Kansas, being bordered on three sides almost entirely by the Missouri River. The river here makes a great horse-shoe bend, coming within two miles of our western line on the north, then taking a southeasterly direction to about the central part of the county, thence taking a direction south, until it reaches the point occupied by the town of Elwood, thence a southwesterly course to the southern boundary of the county, here coming within about twelve miles of our western line, giving us in its meandering course, ninety-two and one-half miles of navigable river.

This secures to us greater advantage for good markets, convenient to all points of the county, and outlets for our products than any other county in the magnificent State of Kansas.

The surface of the country is what is termed rolling or undulating, rising from the numerous streams in terraces, until it reaches the high prairies, which extend for miles unbroken, save by some small water-course, which adds much to the value and beauty of the county. Unlike the prairie States east of us, we have no swamps or sloughs, as the drainage is entirely by the running streams, which make their way to the great Missouri.

Our soil is a rich black loam, ranging in depth from two to ten feet, with a subsoil of clay, and generally free from rock, except along the range of river-bluffs, where the best of limestone is found in quantities sufficient for all purposes of building, improving, and for the supply of the best of lime.

We can raise with little labor almost any product of the temperate zone, in such quantities as to guarantee a good return for all expenditures.

Our resources are not yet known to ourselves, each year brings to light something heretofore unknown in our county. We have an abundance of the best coal mines, which are being worked on a very limited scale, and in several localities good indications of petroleum have been found, and no doubt a few years will bring to light some of the best petroleum wells in the country. The present products of the county are corn, wheat, oats, rye, hemp, barley, and buckwheat, all of which yield bountifully. We are beginning to have a little of our home-grown fruit, but we are too young yet to place this in the list of staples, yet observation has proven that we can and will raise fruit of all kinds in as great quantities as any other State.

For stock raising we claim extraordinary advantages, as we have the best-watered county in Kansas, and the prairies afford without labor an abundance of the best pasture and hay.

The county is watered by the following water-courses: beginning at the north, is .

CEDAR CREEK,

Which rises from numerous springs in the western part of the county, taking a northeasterly direction to within about three and one-half miles west of Iowa Point, and from thence taking an easterly direction and emptying into the Missouri River at the town of Iowa Point. This stream is not sufficiently large for driving machinery by water-power, but serves to supply the county with good stock water, and drains about fifty square miles of the northwestern part of the county.

WOLF RIVER.

This creek is one of the largest in the county, it rises near the western line of the county, a little south of the center, and extends into Brown County. This creek, with its tributaries, drains a large scope of country; rising as it does near the county line, it takes an easterly direction for about four or five miles, which brings it near the center of Wolf River Township, from thence assumes a northeasterly direction for about six miles, or until it reaches Walnut Grove Post-Office, from thence runs a little west of north, and empties into the Missouri River near Lafayette, or about six miles below Iowa Point. This creek could be made of great value to our county, as it is sufficiently large to drive heavy machinery for eight or nine months in the year. There are large bodies of timber skirting this stream, from source to mouth.

MOSQUITO CREEK.

This creek rises near the center of the county near Troy, and takes a direct north course, emptying into the Missouri River, at or near Mount Vernon; this stream is not sufficiently large to drive machinery, but affords great benefit to the county, as its whole length is studded with heavy timber.

PETER'S CREEK.

This is the next creek worthy of note, although there are several north of it, which are generally denominated branches, as they are only a mile or two in length, and generally drain their fountain-heads, during the latter part of the summer and fall. Peter's Creek rises at Troy, near the center of the county, running almost due east to Wathena (eight miles), and from thence due south, about one mile, and empties its waters into the Missouri River. This creek supplies sufficient water to drive machinery nearly the whole year. There is one grist-mill, propelled by the waters of this creek, at Wathena. Peter's Creek Valley is considered the most fertile and productive portion of the county, and is much more thickly settled than any other portion of the county. Farms situated along this stream bring a much higher price than in other localities.

WALNUT CREEK.

This creek rises on the line between Washington and Marion Townships, and takes a southeasterly direction, emptying into the Missouri River at Palermo, a distance of about five miles. This creek drains quite a section of country, and is a great convenience to farmers in the vicinity.

BRUSH CREEK.

This stream rises in Marion Township, about five miles due west of Palermo, and flows in a southeasterly direction and empties into the Missouri River at Geary City, a distance of about five and one-half miles. This creek affords sufficient water to drive machinery, and has one flouring mill driven by its waters at Geary City. The valley is very wide and fertile, and drains a large scope of country.

ROCK CREEK.

This creek rises near the center of the county, and with its tributaries drains nearly the whole southeasterly portion of the county. It runs due south, and empties into the Missouri River at or near Doniphan. The valley of Rock Creek is very thickly settled, and is considered as good a section of country as can be found in the State; there is water enough during some portions of the year to drive light machinery, but during the dry part of the year there is not sufficient water to depend upon. Heavy bodies of timber skirt this stream.

INDEPENDENCE CREEK.

This creek is one of the largest in the county, and probably furnishes a larger volume of water the year round than any other stream in the county. Independence Creek rises in the southwestern part of the county, near the western line, and flows in a southwesterly direction about six miles, when it becomes the boundary line between Doniphan and Atchison counties, and empties into the Missouri River about two miles southeast of Doniphan. The whole length of the creek is about twelve miles. There is sufficient water flows in this creek to drive a heavy class of machinery nearly the whole year. The valley of the Independence is the most extensive bottoms in the county, if we may except the Missouri River bottoms, and is very thickly settled by a wealthy class of farmers. There is an abundance of good timber for all building and improving purposes.

OUR SETTLEMENTS.

The first settlement in Doniphan County was made at what is known as the MISSOURI FARM, being then the Iowa and Sac Mission, situate about three-fourths of a mile east of the present village of Highland, on one of the branches of Wolf River.

This mission was first established by missionaries who were sent from the east to establish institutions of civilization among the tribes of Indians who then occupied this portion of the territory.

This occurred during the year 1835 or '36. A good school was next established for the benefit of the Indians, which became a flourishing institution, regulated and controlled by the most complete and Christian influences; this had a great civilizing effect upon the Indians, who took a deep interest in the teachings of the missionaries. The establishment of a trading post was next, under the supervision of gentlemen appointed to that branch of duty.

This remained the only settlement or trading post for a number of years. In the spring of 1852, a trading post was established at Bellemont (Whitehead), and in April of the same year, a trading post was opened at Wathena, and in the fall of 1852, a trading post was established at Elwood (Rose Port). The next settlement was made at Doniphan, in the year 1853.

These settlements were only trading posts, and therefore improvement was very slow; in fact there was no improvement made in the way of opening farms, and not much enterprise exhibited, as the whole country was then in the hands of, and under the exclusive control of the Indians. In the year 1854, treaties were made with the Kickapoo, Iowa, and Sac Indians, and the lands ceded to the United States (the Kickapoo treaty took place at Doniphan, and that with the Iowas and Sacs, at the mission), and the country was thrown open for settlement, and an immense tide of emigration began to flock into Kansas, and improvements began at the several points on the river (Iowa Point, Charleston, Bellemont, Wathena, Elwood, and Doniphan).

Town companies were organized, and towns laid out at these several points, and their growth was very rapid. Upon the organization of the Territory of Kansas in May, 1854, and during the session of the first Territorial Legislature, many of these towns received city charters, and all gave great promise of a large and permanent growth.

In the organization of Doniphan County, Bellemont (Whitehead), was appointed the temporary seat of justice for the county, and all the county business was transacted at that place until A. D. 1856. About the middle of September, the board of County Commissioners ordered their next meeting to be held at Troy, the present county seat, and in the month of October, all the public books, &c., were removed to Troy.

We have several lively and promising towns in the county, of which there will be found sketches following this "history."

CITIES AND TOWNS.

WHITE CLOUD, in Iowa Township, is situated at the extreme north eastern corner of the county and State, on the bank of the Missouri River, two miles from the Nebraska line on the north, and about the same distance from the Brown County line on the west, sixteen miles from Troy, the county seat. This city has upward of one thousand inhabitants; was incorporated by the Territorial Legislature, and still retains its city organization, and elects its Mayor and Council annually.

There is an immense amount of lumber manufactured at this place. White Cloud is a good market for home products, and is a prominent landing on the Missouri River.

IOWA POINT, in Iowa Township, is situated on the Missouri River, at the mouth of Cedar Creek, five miles southeast of White Cloud, and twelve miles northwest of Troy the county seat. This town was at one time one of the most prominent towns in the county, supported a large amount of trade, one newspaper (the Iowa Point Dispatch), and mechanical and professional branches in abundance; but as the county improved, other points sprung up and took the lead, and this place was compelled to yield to the superior advantages of other points; but she still retains a lively trade, supporting seven stores of all branches, one hotel, one grist and flouring mill, one carding-mill, one saw-mill, and other trades and professions in proportion. There is a large amount of grain annually shipped from this point, and goods are landed here for many parts of Brown and Doniphan counties.

HIGHLAND, in Iowa Township, is a flourishing and enterprising village, situated three-fourths of a mile west of Mission-farm, ten miles northwest from Troy, the county seat. This town is noted for its educational advantages. The Highland University is located here. There is a good business done here, and a proportionate amount of all branches of trade and professions.

TROY, the county seat of Doniphan County, is situated in Center Township, near the geographical center of the county, and on the divide between the head waters of Peter's and Mosquito creeks, and has about eight hundred inhabitants, this is a lively and enterprising city, chartered by the Territorial Legislature, and elects its Mayor and Council annually.

Troy is in the central part of the best farming country in the State.

LAFAYETTE is situated on the Missouri River, in Center Township, south of the mouth of Wolf River, and northwest of the mouth of Mosquito Creek, is six miles due north of Troy, has stores and saw-mills necessary to supply the demand, and is a good landing for steamboats.

WATHENA is situated near the mouth of Peter's Creek, in Washington Township, is the largest town in the county, has one thousand, four hundred inhabitants, and is a lively and flourishing city. There are fourteen stores, two grist-mills, one woolen manufactory, one saw-mill, two hotels, and professional and mechanical branches in proportion. Wathena is one of the best markets in the county for all kinds of farm and stock productions, is convenient to the Missouri River on the north and south; distance to Troy, the county seat, eight miles; St. Joseph, Missouri, four and one-half miles.

ELWOOD is situated at the eastern extremity of the county, in Washington Township. This was at one time the largest town in the county, claiming upward of two thousand inhabitants, but the treacherous bottom land upon which it is situated has been so much torn up and washed away, that the city has gone down to a great extent. This is the starting point for the St. Joseph and Denver Railroad, also the St. Joseph, Wathena, and Troy macadamized road.

PALERMO is situated at the mouth of Walnut Creek, in Marion Township, on the Missouri River, two miles south of Wathena, and is a prominent landing on the river. This town once stood second to none in the county, but finally fell into the same retrogressive movement as other towns; but still retains its proportion of trade.

GEARY CITY, in Wayne Township, is also one among the first organized towns in the county, situated on the Missouri River, at the mouth of Brush Creek; but never attained the growth of other towns. There is a good grist and flouring mill, also a good saw-mill at this place; distance to Troy, the county seat, eight miles; to Doniphan, four miles.

DONIPHAN, in Wayne Township, is situated near the southeast corner of the county, on the Missouri River, is an enterprising and lively town, and a good market for all products of the county; all branches of trade are here represented, and improvements are going forward each year; the great amount of grain and produce annually shipped from this point, makes Doniphan a prominent landing on the Missouri River; distance to Troy, the county seat, ten miles, and to Atchison, the county seat of Atchison County, six miles.

BELLEMONT (Whitehead), is situated on the Missouri River, one and one-half miles north of Wathena, eight miles due east of Troy, the county seat, and four miles due west of St. Joseph, Missouri.

This was the first seat of justice for Doniphan County, appointed by the Legislature upon the organization of the Territory of Kansas, and during the time from 1858 to 1860, was second to no town in the county in point of wealth and enterprise. There was a large steam ferry-boat, which made regular trips to St. Joseph and back, and every thing looked favorable for a large and flourishing town. During the great Pike's Peak emigration, there was not a town in the county which did more business than this, but like other towns it was destined to go down, and now only remains a mere shadow of its former self.

SCHOOLS AND SABBATH SCHOOLS.

Doniphan County is probably as well supplied with schools as any county in the State. There is in the county sixty-eight organized school districts, each of which is supplied with a good school-house or empowered to make the necessary appropriations for the construction of them, and under the well-regulated school laws of Kansas, can have a good free school nine months in the year. There are good schools in nearly every district, as great pains are taken to employ none but good and competent teachers, yet we are at present laboring under the great disadvantages that generally arise in new countries, viz., our districts are, as a general thing, too large, and the number of scholars are too great for the quota of teachers generally employed. We have good proof of this fact by noticing the number of subscription schools throughout the county, but our directors are selected with great care, and our schools are being brought down to an unexceptionable basis.

Each town in the county is well supplied with school room, and many places are gathering the material for graded schools.

We have at present as good an institution of learning as can be found in the west. This is the Highland University, situated at the village of Highland; this is a flourishing institute, under the superintendence and control of the Presbytery of Kansas, and is well patronized, as well from other States as our own.

This institute was founded in the year 1856, and is an out-growth of the mission near Highland.

There are organized Sabbath Schools at nearly every school-house in the county, with a large attendance. Each organized Sabbath School is supplied with a good library and other necessary appurtenances, and they are in a flourishing condition in all parts of the county.

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS.

RAILROADS.

Our railroad interests are probably not as far advanced as some parts of our State, notwithstanding the first railroad in Kansas was built, in the year 1860, from Elwood to Wathena, a distance of four miles, and enough rolling stock furnished to form a good construction train. This railroad was called the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad, and was to follow the route surveyed for the Rose Port and Palermo Railroad.

This road was re-located under the famous "Henderson Amendment," and was to receive appropriations from Congress, and was considered the most feasible route for the Grand Trunk Pacific Railroad; but at the breaking out of the great Rebellion, all enterprise seemed to die out, and our railroad came to a stand still; soon the rolling stock was withdrawn to the eastern side of the river, and our railroad became a dead institution.

Amendments were soon made and appropriations granted by the United States to other routes, which went rapidly forward, taking with them the public attention that had once been directed to our road. The question of starting the enterprise again was agitated last year, and an appropriation asked for from Doniphan County, which was submitted to the people and passed by a large majority, giving to railroads $400,000, one-half of which was to be for the benefit of the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad, and work was again commenced (St. Joseph, Missouri, also made appropriations in a large amount), since which time the road has been pushed forward as fast as possible, and is now (May, 1868), graded and ready for the ties and rails to Troy, a distance of fourteen miles, and the track laid ready for the rolling stock about one-half the distance, and iron and ties on the ground to complete it, as far as Troy. This time we have good assurance of its early completion through our county, which will add greatly to the value of property in all parts of the county, and give us an outlet from the interior. This road makes its starting point at the river bank, in the southeastern part of the town of Elwood, running due west to Wathena, and from thence following the valley of Peter's Creek to its head at Troy (thus far an excellent route); from Troy it takes (according to the survey) a direction almost due west to the western line of the county. It will probably be completed to Troy, during this summer.

THE ATCHISON AND NEBRASKA CITY RAILROAD is a surveyed route from Atchison, in Atchison County, to Nebraska City, in Nebraska. This route enters our county about one and one-half miles south of Doniphan, passing through Doniphan, and from thence due north, forming a junction with the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad at Troy; thence northwest, touching the Missouri River again, near the mouth of Wolf River, and following the river to Iowa Point, and from thence along the foot of the bluffs, to White Cloud, and thence into Nebraska.

This will give us about thirty miles of railroad running north and south through the most fertile portion of the State, and there is not much doubt that the road will be speedily completed, as it is embodied in the bill appropriating $400,000 to railroads, of which its proportion is $200,000. When these two roads are completed, we shall have speedy access to all parts of the country, and in addition to our present markets, we shall have markets at many points in the interior of the county.

We have also an excellent macadamized road running from Elwood to Wathena, a distance of four miles. This road extends the whole length of what is known as the "Elwood Bottoms," and is one of the most beneficial of public improvements, as it makes an excellent road at all times in the year, where the roads were previously impassable with heavy loads for a large portion of the year.

THE DONIPHAN COUNTY AGRICULTURAL, HORTICULTURAL, AND MECHANICAL ASSOCIATION completed its organization as an institution of public interest in the month of January, 1868; since which time it has been growing in public favor very rapidly, and has given an impetus to all branches of agriculture in the county. This association has received so much encouragement, and has been so active in its effect upon the products of the county, that it is deemed advisable to hold a county fair the coming fall; and arrangements are nearly completed for this enterprise. This is known to be a step in the right direction, and one that will place us much higher in the scale of improvement.

WHITE CLOUD (IOWA TOWNSHIP).

The town of White Cloud is located in Iowa Township, in the extreme northeastern corner of the county and of the State, two miles from the Nebraska line on the north, and the same distance from the Brown County line on the west—Doniphan County here running into a narrow neck between the Missouri River and Brown County. The town is situated on the western bend of the Missouri, and is the most westerly of all the Kansas River towns, being twelve miles farther west than Atchison. The distance to Troy, the county seat of Doniphan County is twenty miles; to Hiawatha, the county seat of Brown County, sixteen miles; to St. Joseph, Missouri, thirty-two miles; to Atchison, Kansas, thirty-five miles; to Leavenworth City, sixty miles; to Topeka, the capital of the State, about eighty miles.

White Cloud was laid out in the spring of 1857, by a company originally formed in Oregon, Missouri; but the company was soon after reorganized; embracing capitalists from the West, North, and South.

There were several settlers on the town site for a year or more previous to the above date; but it was included in the Trust Lands of the Iowa Indians, which lands were not put into market until the spring of 1857. The title was acquired by purchase, at the sale of the Iowa Trust Lands, which took place at Iowa Point, in June, 1857. But before the purchase a great many lots had been sold, and a number of buildings erected. The first public sale of lots took place on the 4th day of July, 1857; on which occasion there was a grand celebration, barbecue, and steamboat excursion.

The Iowa Indians still have a Reservation adjoining the town on the north, extending above the Nebraska line, and six or eight miles to the westward.

The town was named after White Cloud, a celebrated chief of this tribe.

Early in the spring of 1857, when there were not half a dozen houses in the town, the "White Cloud Kansas Chief" newspaper was established, which has been published uninterruptedly up to the present time, and is now the oldest established paper in the State.

This town, like most others in Kansas, has had its backsets and its dark days; but for several years past, the spirit of improvement has revived, and at the present time (February, 1868), there are cheering signs of future prosperity. One great advantage in favor of this place is, that it has not, like most western towns, outgrown the country tributary to it; consequently its natural movement must be forward, to meet the demands of the country, not go backward or come to a halt, to wait for the country to catch up. The surrounding country is in the very center and best portion of the magnificent grain and stock-growing region of Kansas and Nebraska, and affords a plentiful supply of every material necessary to a great and prosperous agricultural community.

White Cloud at this time has a population of a little rise of one thousand, and boasts a large brick school-house (not half large enough to meet the demand, we are informed), a fine brick church, and two other churches now being built, the largest and finest hotel (a three story brick) in northern Kansas, a number of dry-goods, grocery, drug, and other stores; a supply of nearly all of the professional and mechanical branches; a fine livery stable; a steam ferry-boat, and a newspaper and job printing-office; also an extensive pork-packing establishment, where a large number of hogs are slaughtered every winter, giving employment to numerous hands, and affording farmers a convenient market for their hogs. There are several dealers constantly engaged in buying grain, of which a vast amount is annually shipped to market. A leading feature of this place is its manufactures, embracing a large grist-mill, a carding-mill, a planing-mill, four saw-mills, and two shingle manufactories. The lumber business is especially large; on the opposite side of the river is the finest and most extensive body of timber on the Missouri; and White Cloud manufactures more than double the amount of lumber of any other town on the Missouri River, all of which finds ready sale-as fast as turned out. -

As the surrounding country is already among the best settled portions of the State, and as the greatest part of this lumber is used in improving the region of which White Cloud is the natural commercial point, it will readily be seen upon what the town has to depend for substantial prosperity.

As yet the Missouri River affords the only channel of commerce to White Cloud; but the surveyed route of the Atchison and Nebraska Railroad passes through the town, and the railroad company promise to have the cars running over the road to the Nebraska line, before the close of the year 1868. Her future, therefore, seems bright, and she bids fair to remain one of the richest and most thriving localities in the magnificent county of Doniphan.

TROY (Center Township).

Troy, the county seat of Doniphan County, is situated two miles east of the geographical center of the county, and is about equal distance (8 to 12 miles) from the towns of Iowa Point, Highland, Doniphan, Wathena, Geary City, Palermo, Columbus, and Bellemont, and sixteen miles from White Cloud, thirteen miles from Elwood, and fourteen miles from the city of St. Joseph, Mo.

In the year 1855, in the act of the Territorial Legislature, organizing the first counties of the Territory, three commissioners were appointed to select a site for the county seat of Doniphan County, the act requiring the same to be within six miles of the geographical center of the county. This provision requiring the county seat to be located within a given distance of the geographical center of the county, was incorporated in the act so as to enable the county to preempt of the government of the United States one quarter section of land for the benefit of the county, under the provisions of an act of Congress granting to counties where the public lands are situated, the right to enter one hundred and sixty acres of the public lands for the establishment of seats of justice therein.

On the 12th of October, 1855, the commissioners appointed for the purpose established the seat of justice for Doniphan County, on the summit between the head waters of Peter's and Mosquito creeks, which is the present city of Troy. This is shown by the report of the said commissioners which is now on file in the office of the county clerk. This report was accepted by the Board of County Commissioners, and Troy became the county seat. On the 15th day of October, 1855, a survey was ordered by the Board of County Commissioners, and a partial survey was made by James Foreman, and on the 15th day of December, the first sale of lots occurred; and on the 16th day of September, 1856, the Board of County Commissioners then in session at Whitehead (Bellemont), the temporary seat of justice, ordered their next meeting to be held at Troy, and on the 20th day of October following, the meeting of the commissioners was held at Troy, and the public books and papers of the county were removed to Troy, where they have since remained.

Since the establishment of the seat of justice at this place all county business has been transacted here, and all meetings of a public character where the public good was interested, have been held at this place.

In the year 1857, a company was organized called the Troy Town Company, and had surveyed, in addition to Troy proper, a quarter section of land adjoining the town on the east, which portion is known and designated as East Troy.

During the session of the Territorial Legislature in 1859 and '60, the citizens made application to have the town incorporated, which application was granted, the act giving as an incorporated town all the rights and privileges as a city with a Mayor and Council; this act of incorporation includes East Troy extending the city limits to contain one half section of land. Since the act of incorporation, however, there have been some additions to the city, to wit: Hayton's addition and Leland's addition.

Since the incorporation the city has ever maintained her organization.

That Troy will make a great city is not expected, but that it will maintain itself as one of the first towns in the county can not be doubted.

The St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad passes through this place forming a junction here. This gives us superior advantages as we are surrounded by an unsurpassed farming country, and will soon have an outlet for all our products, which will give us the additional advantages of a good market for all kinds of farm products.

The first house was erected on the town site in 1855, since which time the town has been constantly improving, and a person who has invested in property here can always realize an advance on their property.

We have four large dry-goods and grocery stores; one grocery store exclusive; one drug store; one stove and tinware store; one bakery and confectionery; one saddle and harness store and manufactory; one boot and shoe store; one large steam flouring and grist mill; one large woolen factory in process of construction; one job printing-office; two large fine churches; two school-houses; three hotels; one livery and feed stable; a large nursery, and a large proportion of all other branches of trade and profession; and funds have been provided to erect a large brick house for a high school. The improvements of the city are of a permanent and creditable character. We have more brick buildings than any other town in the county.

We are so centrally located as to remain an all-important town in the county, which is destined to be one of the leading points in northern Kansas.

Wathena, Kansas.

Our population is estimated at about eight hundred.

There is a magnificent public square located in the center of the city which is filled with shrubbery and trees, and is a great ornament to the city, and our inhabitants are of a go-ahead, enterprising class, and business is at all times good at this point.

WATHENA (WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP).

WATHENA is situated near the mouth of the fertile valley of Peter's Creek, where the creek makes its way through the Missouri River bluffs, and at the western terminus of the St. Joseph, Wathena, and Troy macadamized road. The Missouri River here makes a great horseshoe bend, coming within one and one-fourth miles of the town on the south, and one mile in a northeasterly direction, while it is four miles to the river in a direct east line. We are distant from St. Joseph, Missouri, four miles west; eight miles east of Troy, the county seat; twenty-eight miles southeast of White Cloud; twenty-two miles east of north from Atchison; fifty-one miles east of north from Leavenworth, and seventy-five miles northeast from Topeka, the State capital. Situated as it is at the edge of the bluffs, where the extensive (Elwood) bottoms intersect the high rolling prairie, and being within good shipping distance on the north and south, we have built up a very pretty and enterprising commercial village, surrounded by every thing to make a large city at no distant day. We have easy of access all the materials for building, such as rock and timber, all within our own little domain, while the extensive river bottom supplies us with abundance of fuel and lumber at a very low price. Surrounded as we are by as good a farming country as the world can produce; we have here a self-sustaining city of upward of 1,400 inhabitants.

The town site was originally occupied by Peter Caddri, with a Kickapoo (Indian) wife, who cultivated a small field and acted as interpreter for the Kickapoo tribe of Indians up to the year 1847, at which time he removed to Petersburg (about six miles south from this place).

In 1852 the site was again occupied by Wathena (chief of a small body of Kickapoos), who cultivated a small field, raising an abundance of corn and vegetables. In 1854 the Kickapoo Indians, by treaty, ceded their lands to the United States, and the country was opened for settlement by pre-emption. Wathena, however, subsequently sold his improvements to Mr. M. E. Bryan (still living here), who obtained possession of the "claim" on which it was situated.

Wathena's wigwam was at that time situated a few rods north of the place now occupied by the large steam flouring-mill. It was built with a frame-work of poles tied together with hickory bark, and covered with elm bark, and after his removal was used for a church for some time.

The town, comprising the southeast quarter of section twenty-eight, township three, range twenty-two, was laid off in 1856, by Mr. M. E. Bryan and others, and the first (store) house was built and occupied by Thompson Kemper in 1856, and the same year Albert Heed built the hotel now known as the Wathena House.

The town progressed very slowly from 1856 up to 1859, after which all enterprise seemed to have died out, and we were at a stand still, barely retaining our quota of inhabitants until the autumn of 1864; at which time the spirit of enterprise was again revived, and the lots so long vacant and unimproved gradually began to show the spirit of improvement; and in 1865 emigration began to settle rapidly among us, and the noise and bustle of building, the incessant pounding and raking of saw and hammer were music to our ears. Houses were begun and finished in the same week. We would see the emigrant as he entered with his white covered wagon, noting our excellent natural advantages, and ere long he would be seen accumulating the material for building a house and becoming "one of us," and the covered wagon would assume the character of the lumberman's dray, and but few days would elapse ere we would see him comfortably "housed;" and thus it has grown up to the present time (March 1868), and now occupies, in addition to the original site, North Wathena, Constantinople, Wilson's addition, Seaman's addition, and Smallwood's addition, and enterprising inhabitants numbering upward of 1,400. We have five dry-goods stores, four grocery stores, two drug stores, one hardware store, one tin and stove store, two harness and saddle shops, two meat markets, one steam flouring mill, one water grist-mill, one steam saw-mill, two brick-yards, one large steam woolen manufactory, two boot and shoe stores, two jewelry stores, one cabinet and furniture store, one weekly newspaper (the Wathena Reporter), two livery and feed stables, two hotels, one photograph gallery, one brewery, one bakery, one paint shop, four blacksmith shops, two wagon shops, one omnibus line, and a liberal supply of all professions and mechanics; besides school-houses, one large brick church. The Presbyterian, Episcopal, Methodist, Christian, Universalist, Baptist, and Lutheran denominations have each an organized congregation; and not many months will pass before each of these denominations will have a church erected for their worship.

The surrounding country has a soil of unsurpassed fertility, and with a very little labor will produce bountifully nearly any product of the temperate zone, and ready sale is always found in our market for all products of the farm or garden, at prices which will soon enrich the producer.

A large amount of pork is annually packed, and farmers always find ready sale for their hogs.

The Denver and St. Joseph Railroad is completed to this place and we will in a short time hear the whistle of the locomotive among us.

The surrounding country is settling up very rapidly, and every man of ordinary talent can, by close application, accumulate means to live upon the best the country produces.

Few locations in the great West offer better advantages to the new comer than Wathena, which is the outlet for a great portion of the immense agricultural products of our magnificent county.

HIGHLAND UNIVERSITY.

Highland, Doniphan County, Kansas.

The origin and progress of this institution has been so connected with what was long known as the Iowa and Sac Mission, that an intelligent notice of the former requires us to commence with the latter.

In the spring of the year 1837 (thirty-one years ago), the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions commenced a mission among the Iowa and Sac Indians, then the owners and occupants of what is now the larger part of Doniphan and Brown counties. This mission was continued as long as the Indians remained within reach of it.

In the year 1854, the United States Government made a treaty with these tribes removing their claims from this part of their lands; and the country was thrown open for settlement.

The mission was a point of attraction especially for persons favorable to education and moral and religious improvement, which secured at an early day that for which it is now noted, an intelligent, industrious and moral community. And this is one of the fundamental and essential elements for the foundation of a successful institution of learning.

It is difficult to say when the inception of this institution commenced in the minds of those engaged in its foundation. It was known to be thought of, and talked of, long before the claims of the aborigines were removed, or the country thrown open to the whites. It required no great foresight to see that a country so fertile and inviting as this would not remain long in the hands of a people who had neither the ability or the will to improve it, and that it must soon fall into the hands of those who seem to be willing and able at all hazards to elbow every thing out of their way.

However, to prepare the way for the coming race became an object of interest to the missionaries, and the early and thoughtful inhabitants.

Soon after the enterprising whites took possession of the country (in 1855), the village of Highland was laid out. This village is two miles west from where the old mission stands.

This was thought to be a suitable place for the contemplated high school, and on the first lithographed chart of the town it is stated to be

"INTENDED AS A SEAT OF LEARNING."

As early as the year 1856, a school was commenced in a "log-cabin" (the first house built on the premises, and had been occupied for a time as a "pre-emption house").

This school was commenced by a pious clergyman in prayer and faith, though with but a few scholars, and it is gratifying to know that for twelve years, including the years of war and conflict in our nation, this school has been constantly kept up, except the usual vacations.

Through the energy and industry of the friends of the school, the first log-cabin gave way to a neat frame building, and at the request of the friends and patrons of the school, its management was transferred to the "Highland Presbytery" (old school), and that body took control of it under the title of the "Highland Presbyterian Academy." In November, 1857, the Highland Presbytery appointed a board of nine trustees to take charge of the affairs of this institution, with a request that they should apply to the Legislature for a charter, by which the property could be held, and the business managed as a body corporate.

In obedience to this request, a liberal charter was obtained from the Territorial Legislature in the winter of 1857-8, under the title of "The Highland University."

The original charter gives the control of the institution to the Presbytery, but a supplemental act of the Legislature, passed in the winter of 1865-6, transfers the control from the Presbytery of Highland, to the Synod of Kansas.

The charter places the institution under the immediate control of nine trustees, who hold their office three years each; these trustees are divided into three classes, of three each, three of whom go out of office each year, and their places filled by appointment of the Synod of Kansas. By the terms of the charter the institution is secured to the Presbyterian church.

It has all the privileges and advantages usually conferred upon the highest institutions, and by the constitution of the State, as well as by statutory provisions, its property is exempt from taxation.

Its present condition and prospects are satisfactory, and as prosperous as could be expected for a country so new.

The present building is of brick, 40 by 60 feet, and walls twenty-five feet high, and so constructed as to be one wing of a main building yet to be erected.

It is divided into a large chapel room, 40 by 40; two school-rooms 20 by 40 each; two recitation rooms, a room for apparatus, one room for a library, and an entrance hall.

It stands on the most eligible grounds in the village, and is endowed with four blocks, or about eight acres of ground; besides this, the institution owns nearly two hundred lots scattered promiscuously through the village.

The apparatus is in good condition, and used to advantage in the school; its estimated value is between one thousand and twelve hundred dollars.

A respectable nucleus for a library is now on hand; the books are not yet numbered, and no catalogue made out, but the value can not be less than $1500 (fifteen hundred dollars).

The entire property, with books and apparatus, has been estimated by a committee appointed for the purpose by the Synod, at $15,000 (fifteen thousand dollars).

The number of students now (March, 1868) upon the rolls is one hundred and sixteen, with an average attendance of one hundred.

At present it is a mixed school, including both sexes. All the higher branches of the English and the Classics are taught, and the school contains a strictly primary department for those in the elementary studies. The aim of the institution is to reach the point indicated by the name of "University," where all the departments of learning may be reached.

This Institute is located in the northwestern part of the county and State, four miles from the Missouri River, and about ten miles south of the northern line of the State, and in one of the most fertile and productive regions; from its cupola may be seen the States of Nebraska and Missouri, and, indistinctly, Iowa. In these adjacent States there is no such institution near, and in our own State there is no attempt of the same kind nearer than sixty miles; our county has, therefore, the advantage of a good start in the right direction, and can furnish to surrounding counties and States the means of education.

An endowment of one hundred thousand dollars should be secured to this young institution, and we can see no reason why our State Legislature, who have been so liberal to more central and southern institutions, might not be expected to do something for this part of our State:

The history and present condition of our young institution ought to commend it to every one. Its foundation was laid in the bloody and eventful struggles of our infant State, and thus far a watchful Providence has guarded it, and now, more than ever, the friends of education, religion, and order, should rally around it; and Eastern friends, who long and prayerfully contributed to the Iowa and Sac missions, should look upon it with interest and favor, as an outgrowth from the missionary work, and a living exemplification of the reflux influence of a good and generous Christian work.

ELWOOD (WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP).

Elwood is situated at the eastern extremity of Doniphan County, on the western bank of the Missouri River, where the river makes a sharp bend, washing the city upon the north, east, and south.

This point was first occupied by Thompson, in the fall of 1852, and soon after the village of Rose Port occupied a small portion of the ground known now as Elwood, and retained the name of Rose Port until the summer of 1857, at which time a company was organized, known as the "Elwood Town Company." This company purchased the land around Rose Port, and during the same season, purchased Rose Port, and surveyed and entered the city of Elwood, under a charter granted by the Kansas Territorial Legislature, and commenced her career as one of our Kansas cities.

During this season, a newspaper was started, called "The Elwood Advertiser," which sent forth its weekly issues to herald the progress of our young State. The growth of the city was almost incredible, and in 1858, we had ten stores, three good livery and sale stables, a good steam ferry, three good hotels (one of them the "Great Western," the largest hotel in the State, being 200 by 40 feet, and three stories high), all professional and mechanical branches were proportionally represented. During this season the Elwood Advertiser changed its name, and came out as "The Kansas Weekly Press," and was published until June, 1859, when it again changed its name, to appear as "The Elwood Free Press." Elwood continued to grow rapidly up to this time, and in July, 1859, boasted upward of 2,000 inhabitants.

In the spring of 1859, when the river was at its highest, the banks being very sandy, began to cave and fall into the river, and, in one month, the river had made such inroads into the treacherous soil, that many people were compelled to move their houses to save them. This, however, did not impede the growth of the town, and it continued to grow rapidly, until the spring of 1860, during this spring the river again commenced sapping the foundation of our city, this time carrying away acres of the best and thickest populated portion of the city, threatening to carry us away altogether.

This frightened the inhabitants, and Elwood began to show signs of going down, and the tide of emigration sought a more permanent investment for their means. And in 1861, Elwood was but a shadow of its former self.

The newspaper was discontinued, and nearly all branches of trade were brought to a stand-still, buildings were sold at one-half the original cost, and removed, some into the country for farm-houses, and many helped to build up other towns in the county.

This was a heavy blow to Elwood, and one from which she has not yet recovered; but at the present time (April, 1868), there are good signs of improvement. This is the starting point for the St. Joseph and Denver Railroad, upon which work is going on rapidly. We have now in operation three stores, two livery and sale stables, one hotel, one steam ferry, and a proportional amount of mechanical branches of trade, a good macadamized road runs west four miles, and a gradually increasing population.

DONIPHAN (WAYNE TOWNSHIP).

Doniphan is situated in the extreme southeasterly portion of the county, on the Missouri River, in a wide, fertile valley, extending back from the river nearly two miles.

This town is one of the most important in the county, being the most extensive grain market in northern Kansas. This, like most other towns in the county, is an outgrowth of the "Indian trading post," which was first established at this point, in the year 1853, and in the year 1855, a "Town Company" was organized, and, upon application, received a city charter. Soon following, city officers were elected, and our career as a city begun and a bright future opened up before us; and, like all cities of those days, property changed hands readily at extraordinary high prices, and our growth was very rapid—the demand for "corner lots" far exceeding the capacity of our young city. Our streets were graded, and every thing put in the best order possible. In the year 1857, the land office was located at this place, bringing with it a great number of speculators, who, being moneyed men, put their funds in circulation in our midst. As a necessity in connection with the land office, lawyers and real estate agents were numerous, and our streets were bordered with their offices. Our growth continued for several years, and we were looking forward to the time when Doniphan should occupy the first place in the State as a city.

The "Constitutionalist" was the first newspaper established, and became the leading institution of the city, as through its columns we could tell the world at large, the great advantages of our country. This enterprise could not exist, however, and soon ceased its issues and was finally removed from our city.

The next was "The Crusader of Freedom," which was published weekly, for a short period of time, when it, too, took up the line of march, and was removed from our city. "The Doniphan Post" was the next newspaper to establish among us, and this one promised to be a living institution, but with all the energy that could be put into it, it was destined to sink, and, about the year 1860, also followed the others to some other point. Our city, like our newspapers, was destined to go down, and began her retrogressive movement, in the year 1858, at which time the land office was removed, followed by the lawyers, &c., and we came to a stand-still, all branches of business suddenly became dull, and we were destined to retire into the shades of the more fortunate cities. Houses were removed to other parts of the county, and but a short time elapsed ere we were classed among the cities of the past.

During the last two years, however, we have been gradually improving, and up to the present time (1868) boast the best grain market in Kansas. We have a good proportion of all branches of trade and manufactories, and our population is continually increasing. We are the outlet for the products of nearly one-half the county.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

PREAMBLE.

WE the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this CONSTITUTION for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

SECTION I.—All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

SEC. II.—1st. The House of Representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several States, and the electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislature.

2d. No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not when elected be an inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen.

3d. Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three; Massachusetts, eight; Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, one; Connecticut, five; New York, six; New Jersey, four; Pennsylvania, eight; Del- ware, one; Maryland, six; Virginia, ten; North Carolina, five; South Carolina, five; and Georgia, three.

4th. When vacancies happen in the representation from any State, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

5th. The House of Representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SEC. III.—1st. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each State, chosen by the Legislature thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote.

2d. Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year; of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year; and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year; so that one third may be chosen every second year: and if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the Legislature of any State, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

3d. No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not when elected be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

4th. The Vice-President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.

5th. The Senate shall choose their other officers, and also a President pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

6th. The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments.

When sitting for that purpose they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

7th. Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust, or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment, according to law.

SEC. IV.—1st. The times, places, and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof; but the Congress may, at any time, by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

2d. The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

SEC. V.—1st. Each House shall be the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members; and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties as each House may provide.

2d. Each House may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

3d. Each House shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy, and the yeas and nays of the members of either House on any question, shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

4th. Neither House, during the session of Congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting.

SEC. VI.—1st. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the Treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective Houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either House, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

2d. No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either House during his continuance in office.

SEC. VII.—1st. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives, but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

2d. Every bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the President of the United States: if he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his objections, to that House in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that House shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that House, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each House respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted), after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

3d. Every order, resolution, or vote, to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment), shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

SEC. VIII.—The Congress shall have power,

1st.—To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises; to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts, and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States.

2d. To borrow money on the credit of the United States.

3d. To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes.

4th. To establish an uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States.

5th. To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures.

6th. To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States.

7th. To establish post-offices and post-roads.

8th. To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries.

9th. To constitute tribunals inferior to the Supreme Court.

10th. To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offenses against the law of nations.

11th. To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water.

12th. To raise and support armies; but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years.

13th. To provide and maintain a navy.

14th. To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces.

15th. To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections, and repel invasions.

16th. To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States—reserving to the States respectively, the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress.

17th. To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, over

18th. To make all laws which shall be, necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the Government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

Sec. IX.—1st. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

2d. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

3d. No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be past.

4th. No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

5th. No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any State.

6th. No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one State over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one State, be obliged to enter, clear, or pay duties in another.

7th. No money shall be drawn from the Treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

8th. No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States : and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall without the consent of the Congress accept of any present, emolument, office, or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign State.

SEC. X.—1st. No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation ; grant letters of marque and reprisal ; coin money ; emit bills of credit ; make any thing but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts ; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.

2d. No State shall, without the consent of the Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws ; and the net produce of all duties and imposts, laid by any State on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the Treasury of the United States ; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the Congress. No State shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another State, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

SEC. I.—1st. The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the Vice-President chosen for the same term, be elected as follows :—

2d. Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress ; but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

3d. The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each ; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the Government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate.

Special attention given to Horse and Mule Shoeing.

Thankful to the public for past favors, we would most respectfully solicit a continuance of the same.

The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the House of Representatives shall immediately choose by ballot one of them for President; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said House shall in like manner choose the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose, shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the Vice-President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the Senate shall choose from them by ballot the Vice-President.

4th. The Congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

5th. No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

6th. In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President; and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the President and Vice-President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

7th. The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States or any of them.

8th. Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:—

“I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States.”

SEC. II.—1st. The President shall be Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the Militia of the several States, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices; and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

2d. He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the Supreme Court, and all other officers of the United States, whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law. But the Congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers, as they think proper, in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

3d. The President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

SEC. III.—He shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both Houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them, with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them, to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

SEC. IV.—The President, Vice-President, and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for and conviction of treason, bribery, or other high crimes or misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

SEC. I.—The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the Supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall at stated times receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

SEC. II.—1st. The judicial power shall extend to all cases, in law and equity, arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made or which shall be made under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more States; between a State and citizens of another State; between citizens of different States; between citizens of the same State claiming lands under grants of different States; and between a State, or the citizens thereof, and foreign States, citizens, or subjects.

2d. In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a State shall be a party, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions, and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

3d. The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.

SEC. III.—1st. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason, unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

2d. The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

SEC. I.—Full faith and credit shall be given in each State to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records, and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

SEC. II.—1st. The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

2d. A person charged in any State with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in another State, shall on demand of the executive authority of the State from which he

3d. No person held to service or labor in one State under the laws thereof, escaping to another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

SEC. III.—1st. New States may be admitted by the Congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other State; nor any State be formed by the junction of two or more States or parts of States, without the consent of the Legislatures of the States concerned as well as of the Congress.

2d. The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States or of any particular State.

SEC. IV.—The Constitution shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and on application of the Legislature, or the Executive (when the Legislature can not be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

SEC. I.—The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or, on the application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which in either case shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress:—

Provided, That no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate.

ARTICLE VI.

SEC. I.—1st. All debts contracted and engagements entered into before the adoption of this Constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution as under the Confederation.

2d. This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made or which shall be made under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, any thing in the constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.

3d. The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several State Legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this Constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

SEC. I.—The ratification of the conventions of nine States shall be sufficient for the establishment of this Constitution between the States so ratifying the same.

Done in Convention by the unanimous consent of the States present, the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the twelfth. In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION.

The conventions of a number of the States having, at the time of their adopting the Constitution, expressed a desire, in order to prevent misconstruction or abuse of its powers, that further declaratory and restrictive clauses should be added, Congress, at the session begun and held at the city of New York, on Wednesday, the 4th day of March, 1789, proposed to the Legislatures of the several States, twelve amendments, ten of which only were adopted. They are the ten first following:—

ARTICLE I.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

ARTICLE II.

A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed.

ARTICLE III.

No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

ARTICLE IV.

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

ARTICLE V.

No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

ARTICLE VI.

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

ARTICLE VII.

In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved; and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law.

ARTICLE VIII.

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

ARTICLE IX.

The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

ARTICLE X.

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

ARTICLE XI.

The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of another State, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign State.

ARTICLE XII.

1st. The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for President and Vice-President, one of whom at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice-President, and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and of all persons voted for as Vice-President, and of the number of votes for each, which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of Government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate; the President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted; the person having the greatest number of votes for President shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as President, the House of Representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. And if the House of Representatives shall not choose a President, whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice-President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President.

2d. The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice-President, shall be the Vice-President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list, the Senate shall choose the Vice-President; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of Senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice.

3d. But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of President shall be eligible to that of Vice-President of the United States.

ARTICLE XIII.

If any citizen of the United States shall accept, claim, receive, or retain any title of nobility or honor, or shall, without the consent of Congress, accept and retain any present, pension, office, or emolument of any kind whatever, from any emperor, king, prince, or foreign power, such person shall cease to be a citizen of the United States, and shall be incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under them or either of them.

(NOTE.—The eleventh article of the amendments to the Constitution, was proposed at the second session of the third Congress; the twelfth article at the first session of the eighth Congress, and the thirteenth article at the second session of the eleventh Congress.)

ARTICLE V. of the Constitution of the United States, clearly and distinctly sets forth the mode and manner in which that instrument may be amended, as follows:

“The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or, on the application of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which in either case shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification, may be proposed by the Congress."

In accordance with this article of the Constitution, the following resolution was proposed in the Senate, on the 1st day of February, 1864:—

Resolved, By the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, two-thirds of the House concurring, that the following article be proposed to the Legislatures of the several States, as an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which when ratified by three-fourths of said Legislatures shall be valid to all intents and purposes as a part of the said Constitution, namely:—

ARTICLE XIII. SEC. I.—Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

SEC. II.—Congress shall have power to enforce this Article by appropriate legislation.

NOTES UPON THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

DESCRIBING TO SOME EXTENT THE DUTIES DEVOLVING UPON THE PRESIDENT AND HIS CABINET, AND SALARY OF EACH.

THE Government of the United States is a federal democratic republic. It is based upon the Constitution of 1789, and amendments thereto.

All legislative powers are vested in Congress, which consists of a Senate and House of Representatives.

The "House of Representatives" is composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several States, and in number in accordance with the population of each; in order to ascertain the number each State is entitled to, a census is taken every ten years.

Each State is entitled to at least one representative. Vacancies are filled by intermediate elections. The House chooses its Speaker and other officers.

No person under twenty-five years of age, who has been less than seven years a citizen of the United States, and who is not a resident of the State electing him, is qualified for representative.

Each Territory is entitled to one delegate, who has the right to debate on subjects in which his Territory is interested, but is not allowed a vote.

The "Senate" consists of two members from each State, elected by the Legislatures thereof respectively for six years.

One-third the whole body is renewed every two years, and if vacancies happen, by resignation or otherwise, during the recess of the Legislature of any State, the executive of such State makes a temporary appointment until the next meeting of the Legislature, which fills such vacancy. Senators must be at least thirty-three years old; must have been citizens of the United States for nine years, and be citizens of the State from which they are chosen.

Each senator has one vote. The Vice-President of the United States is ex officio President of the Senate, but a president pro tempore is elected by and from among the Senators, who, in the absence of the president acts in his stead.

Besides its ordinary legislative capacity, the Senate is vested with certain judicial functions, and its members constitute a High Court of Impeachment.

No person can be convicted by this court unless on the finding of a majority of the Senators, nor does judgment extend further than to removal from office and disqualification.

Representatives have the sole power of Impeachment. The compensation of members of Congress is five thousand dollars per annum, and mileage, at twenty cents per mile, in going to and returning from the seat of government. The pay of the presiding officers of both Houses is six thousand dollars per annum.

The constitutional government went into operation on the 4th of March, 1789, but a quorum of the first Congress, which met at New York City, was not formed until April 6th, nor was the first President of the United States inaugurated until the 30th of April.

The Executive Power is vested in a President, who is elected by an Electoral College, chosen by popular vote or by the Legislature of the State, the number of electors being equal to the number of Senators and Representatives from the States to Congress.

His term of office is four years but he is eligible for re-election. The electors forming the college are themselves chosen in the manner prescribed by the laws of the several States.

A majority of the aggregate number of votes given is necessary to the election of President and Vice-President, and if none of the candidates have such a majority, then the election of President is determined by the House of Representatives, and that of the Vice-President by the Senate, from among the three candidates having received the highest number of electoral votes. The vote is taken by States, the Representatives of each State having but one vote.

No person can be President or Vice-President who is not a native-born citizen of the United States, and of the age of thirty-five years, and must have been a resident of the United States for fourteen years.

The PRESIDENT is Commander in Chief of the army and navy, and of the militia when in the service of the Union. With the concurrence of two-thirds of the Senate, he has the power to make treaties, appoint civil and military officers, levy war, conclude peace, and do all that rightly belongs to the executive power.

He has a veto on all laws passed by Congress, but so qualified, that notwithstanding his disapproval any bill becomes a law after its approval by two-thirds of both Houses of Congress.

The President has a salary of $ 25,000 per annum, and "The White House" at Washington for a residence during his official term.

The VICE-PRESIDENT is ex-officio President of the Senate, and in case of the death, resignation, or other disability of the President, the powers and duty of that office devolve upon him for the remainder of the term for which the President was elected. In case of the disability of the Vice-President, the President of the Senate pro-tempore takes his place.

The administrative business of the nation is conducted by several officers with the title of Secretaries, etc., who form what is termed the "Cabinet." These are the Secretary of State, the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of the Interior, the Postmaster-General, and the Attorney-General, the last being the official law authority for advisement in administrative affairs. Each of these preside over a separate department.

The "Department of State" was created by an act of Congress of the 15th of Sept., 1789; by a previous act of July 27th, 1789, it was denominated the Department of Foreign Affairs. It embraced

Until the establishment of the Department of the Interior, 1849, what, in some other governments, are styled the Department of Foreign Affairs and Home Department; but the duties now being divided, it confines its operations almost entirely to foreign matters, hence its original title might, with propriety and convenience, be restored.

The SECRETARY OF STATE, conducts all treaties between the United States and foreign powers, and corresponds officially with the public ministers of the government at foreign courts and with ministers of foreign powers resident in the United States. He is intrusted with the publication of all treaties with foreign powers, grants passports to American citizens who are visiting foreign countries. He has charge of the great seal of the United States, but can not affix it to any commission until signed by the President, nor to any instrument without the authority of the President.

The Secretary of State has a salary of $6,000 per annum.

The "Department of the Interior," was established by an act of Congress of the 30th of March, 1849.

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR is intrusted with the supervision and management of all matters connected with the public domain,

Indian affairs, pensions, patents, public buildings, the census, the penitentiary of the District of Columbia, the expenditures of the Federal Judiciary, etc.

Each of these interests is managed in a separate bureau or office, the immediate head of which is called Commissioner, Superintendent, or Warden, as the case may be.

The salary of the Secretary of the Interior is $6,000 per annum.

The "Department of the Treasury" was created by an act of Congress of the 2d of September, 1789.

The SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY superintends all the fiscal concerns of the Government, and upon his own responsibility recommends to Congress measures for improving the condition of the revenue.

All public accounts are finally settled at this department; and for this purpose it is divided into the office of Secretary, who has the general superintendence; the offices of the two Controllers; the office of the Six Auditors; the office of the Commissioner of Customs; the Treasurer's office; the Registrar's office; the Solicitor's office; and the office of the Coast Survey.

The salary of the Secretary of the Treasury is $6,000 per annum.

The "Department of War" was created by an act of Congress of the 7th of August, 1789, and at first embraced not only military but naval affairs.

The SECRETARY OF WAR, superintends every branch of military affairs, and has under his immediate direction the Adjutant-General's office, the Quartermaster-General's Bureau, the Paymaster's Bureau, the Subsistence Bureau, the Medical Bureau, the Engineer Bureau, the Topographical Bureau, the Ordnance Bureau, and the Freedmen's Bureau, and the Department has the superintendence of the erection of fortifications, of making public surveys, etc.

The salary of the Secretary of War is $6,000 per annum.

The "Department of the Navy" was created by an act of Congress of the 30th of April, 1798.

The SECRETARY OF THE NAVY issues all orders to the naval forces and superintends naval affairs generally. Attached to the Department are a Bureau of Docks and Navy-Yards; a Bureau of Ordnance and Hydrography; a Bureau of Construction, Equipment, and Repairs; a Bureau of Provisions and Clothing; a Bureau of Medical and Surgical Instruments, etc.; and the National Observatory at Washington is under the control of the Navy Department.

The Secretary of the Navy receives a salary of $6,000 per annum.

The "Post-Office Department" was established under the authority of the old Congress.

At a meeting held by the Democracy, in this city, October 19th, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—

RESOLVED, That we regard the MISSOURI VINDICATOR as the true and faithful exponent of our party principles, and recognize it as the organ of the Democratic party in the Northwest.

EDWARD BAIN,

MANUFACTURER OF

FARM WAGONS,
ST. JOSEPH, MO.

I desire to call particular attention to my manufacture of

FIRST-CLASS FARM WAGONS.

My shops are located on the C. & N. W. Railway, affording superior facilities for shipping in all directions.

Here I find convenient, an abundance of Wagon Stock of the very best quality, which is the greatest desideratum for the successful building of a uniform grade of wagons.

I use only the Leonard's Patent Seamless Thimble Skains, which I find indispensable to insure light draught and a perfect running wagon.

I make Farm Wagons a Specialty, and thereby, having one class of stock and labor to provide, I am enabled to produce the justly celebrated Bain Wagon, the well-known reputation of which, throughout the Northwest, for uniform strength and durability, warrants me in saying that there are none better, if as good.

I do not claim to make the lowest price wagons, but I do claim and aim to make the best wagons, which, under all circumstances, will prove to be the cheapest in the end.

I will give to all buyers a good and sufficient guaranty, warranting my wagons to their entire satisfaction.

Orders for Wagons or Prices, will receive prompt attention.
